

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

La Cole Archuletta

Brittani Jordan, A Long Walk Home, Inc. Girl/Friends alumna

Jennifer Adams, North County Women's Shelter and Resource Center/ Sexual Assault Response and Prevention Center of San Luis Obispo

LEAH ALDRIDGE

As Associate Director of Youth Violence Prevention, Policy and Training for Peace Over Violence (formerly the Los Angeles Commission on Assaults Against Women), Ms. Aldridge supervised the development, implementation and direction of violence prevention programs for youth, their families and community. Her responsibilities included the recruitment and training staff and volunteers; organizational development and management; working in coalition and collaboration with allied organizations and individuals; and the continuous development of strategies to better serve youth. Through her extensive work with teens came POV's In Touch With Teens Curriculum, which was recognized nationally as a model program for dating/sexual violence prevention education for youth. Currently Ms. Aldridge is a PhD Candidate at the University of Southern California, School of Cinematic Arts, Division of Critical Studies. Her research interests center on how international distribution and circulation impacts domestic production

MARIA ALTONEN

Maria Altonen, is a Project Coordinator at the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance and Virginia Anti Violence Project. In Their current role, coordinates a Richmond metropolitan area project which enhances intimate partner violence and sexual abuse services to the LGBTQ community. Maria also has extensive experience working on the Virginia statewide hotline for sexual and domestic violence through the Action Alliance. Maria has a Bachelors degree in Social Justice from George Mason University. As well as a Masters in Urban Planning with a concentration in Housing Policy, and graduate certificate in Gender Violence and Intervention from Virginia Commonwealth University.

CORDELIA ANDERSON

Since 1976, Cordelia Anderson, M.A., has been working for to end child sexual abuse. Cordelia has nearly 35 years of experience in prevention - promoting healthy development and preventing harmful behaviors. She is an advocate for primary prevention and social change. During the last 20 years through her own training and consultation business Cordelia has worked with a wide variety of organizations nationwide to help them advance their prevention strategies and has conducted over 2,200 presentations nationally and internationally throughout her career. Together with Joan Tanbachnick, Cordelia is a lead presenter for the PreventConnect/Ms. Foundation for Women Ending Child Sexual Abuse web conference series.

EMILY AUSTIN

Emily Austin is the Director of Policy and Evaluation at Peace Over Violence, a non-profit domestic violence and sexual assault intervention and prevention organization. A native of Northern California, Ms. Austin graduated from the University of California, Los Angeles with a BA in Women's Studies and English. She received her law degree from the University of Southern California. Upon graduating law school, Emily was an Audrey and Sydney Irmis Fellow at the California Women's Law Center. Her fellowship focused on teen dating violence and the educational system's response to teen dating violence, sexual assault, and sexual harassment. During law school, Emily was a judicial extern to the Honorable Steven Reinhardt on the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. She also clerked for two civil rights law firms and held an internship with the California Women's Law Center. Emily has worked on women's issues for seven years as both a women's studies major and law student. Emily provided direct services to women and children at the USC Law Domestic Violence Clinic as a certified law student. She participated in the Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition and has worked on international women's rights, civil rights and police misconduct cases. She is an active alumni of the Public Interest Law Foundation. Since joining Peace Over Violence, Emily has helped publish the second edition of In Touch With Teens: A Relationship Violence Prevention Curriculum and co-authored Be Strong: From the Inside Out. She also has helped organize four Peace Over Violence's Violence-Free Teens: Building Healthy Relationships Conferences. She has co-authored several policy and research papers for Peace Over Violence, including A Painful Truth: A Retrospective of a Decade of Sexual Violence, and Stories of Strength: Report on Child Sexual Abuse & Community Recommendations for Prevention.

CLAUDIA J. BAYLIFF

Claudia J. Bayliff is an attorney and educator with twenty-five years of experience working on issues related to sexual assault. She is currently serving as the National Judicial Education Program's (NJEP) Project Attorney, developing judicial educational materials and educating judges nationwide about sexual assault. She has a broad range of experience on the issue of sexual violence, from volunteering as a hotline crisis counselor to serving as the first Chief of the United States Air Force's worldwide Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program. She has also consulted with the Department of the Navy, the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Army to help them develop their sexual assault prevention and investigation strategies. Ms. Bayliff served as the Assistant Director of the Boulder County Rape Crisis Team. She also taught classes on women and the law at the University of Colorado in Boulder and Denver. Ms. Bayliff is a nationally recognized expert on sexual violence. She has extensive experience in policy analysis and development, research, and curriculum development for civilian, military and tribal communities. She has also presented at conferences and professional organizations throughout the United States, Canada and Europe about sexual violence and the intersection of sexual and domestic violence.

KRIS BEIN

Kris Bein is the Assistant Coordinator for the Resource Sharing Project, where she provides training and technical assistance to state coalitions and rural rape crisis centers on sexual assault services, agency structure, and capacity building. Ms. Bein has been a part of the anti-violence movement since 1995. Ms. Bein holds a master's degree in Human Services, specialization in Social Services Administration, from the University of Illinois.

ALISON BELLAVANCE

Alison Bellavance, M.Ed., CSE is the Director of Education for Planned Parenthood of Northeast, Mid-Penn and Bucks County. With over 10 years experience in sexuality education, Alison has expertise in the intersection between healthy sexuality and sexual violence prevention and has provided consultation on the National Sexual Violence Resource Center's 2012 & 2013 SAAM campaigns. She has worked with many sexual violence prevention organizations and Planned Parenthood affiliates to increase collaboration and strengthen sexual violence prevention efforts. Alison is also an Adjunct Instructor at the Center for Human Sexuality Studies at Widener University.

ALAN BERKOWITZ

Alan Berkowitz is a recognized leader in the sexual assault prevention field, including the design of prevention programs for men, implementation of the social norms approach as a violence prevention strategy, and bystander intervention training and skills. He has published extensively on sexual assault prevention and the design of prevention programs for men, and has received five national awards for his work as a prevention specialist. He has been an invited speaker at previous NSVRC conferences and was on the planning committee for the first three CDC sponsored national violence prevention conferences. In addition, he is a frequent keynote speaker at State Coalition of Sexual Assault Annual Meetings and consults extensively with public health agencies, the military, and higher education to develop and implement state of the art sexual assault prevention programs.

GERRY D. BLASINGAME

Gerry D. Blasingame, Psy.D., is a California licensed marriage and family therapist. For the last twenty-eight years he has worked with adults and adolescents, with and without developmental disabilities, who have sexually offended, and with victims of abuse and sexual assault. Gerry has authored several articles, chapters, and books including Developmentally Disabled Persons with Sexual Behavior Problems, second edition (2005) and An Introduction to Autism Spectrum Disorders, Sexual Behaviors, and Therapeutic Interventions (2011). Gerry is a current member of ATSA (Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers), and a past member of the ATSA Board as the Pacific Region Representative. Gerry is also past Chairperson of the Board of Directors for the California Coalition on Sexual Offending. Gerry was appointed to the California Sex Offender Management Board (CASOMB) in 2007, and is the chairperson of the CASOMB Treatment Committee. Gerry provides training and consultation services for several institutions, residential programs and community based programs and clinicians regarding adults and adolescents. Gerry has presented at numerous conferences as well. Gerry enjoys hiking and nature photography in his spare time.

MOLLY BOEDER HARRIS

was launched into the field of sexual violence and healing trauma as a volunteer, professional and activist after surviving being sexually assaulted in 2003. Exploring many diverse traditional and non-traditional resources for recovery and resilience in the aftermath of the assault, she found that the approaches which integrated the physical, emotional, energetic, and spiritual impacts of sexual trauma proved to be the most effective and most empowering. Molly has worked in community-based rape crisis centers as a crisis intervention medical and legal advocate and has provided crisis intervention support and prevention education for students on a college campus — yet she feels most drawn to and inspired by the work to connect survivors to support systems that facilitate sustainable healing and embodiment after trauma. She is humbled by witnessing survivors of all demographics and from all continents explore and experience their unique and innate capacity to heal and transcend the trauma of sexual violence. She holds a Master's Degree in International Studies and a Master's Certificate in Women's and Gender Studies. Molly is also a Certified Yoga instructor offering public classes, private instruction as well as workshops specifically focused on healing trauma through yoga.

HALLIE BONGAR WHITE

Hallie Bongar White, JD, is the Executive Director of the Southwest Center on Law and Policy (SWCLAP). SWCLAP is the legal training and technical assistance provider for the Office on Violence Against Women, United States Department of Justice for all tribal grantees and is the parent organization of the National Tribal Trial College, the National Indian Country Clearinghouse on Sexual Assault, and SAFESTAR. Ms. White is the author of numerous publications related to sexual violence against American Indian/Alaska Native women including the national tribal law enforcement and prosecution protocols on sexual assault and SAFESTAR, She serves on the U.S. Department of Justice, Office for Victims of Crime National Coordination Committee on the American Indian/Alaska Native Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner-Sexual Assault Response Team Initiative. Ms. White resides with her husband and children (Citizen Potawatomi Nation) in Tucson, Arizona.

JOE BOOTH

Joe Booth, Just Detention International Survivor Council Member

MEG BOSSONG

Meg Bossong is the Manager of Community Engagement for the Boston Area Rape Crisis Center. In that role, she manages the community-facing education and outreach work of Massachusetts' oldest and largest rape crisis center, which serves 26 cities and towns and 1.3 million people in the Greater Boston area. Over the last five years with BARCC, her work has included collaboration with a variety of community partners in education, health care, faith communities, law enforcement, and municipal government to coordinate sexual violence prevention and intervention initiatives. As an independent consultant, she works with colleges to design sexual violence response and prevention policies and programming initiatives and to train campus stakeholders on issues related to sexual violence. She holds a B.A. in political science from Williams with a concentration in comparative social change and an M.S. in Law and Public Policy from Northeastern University with a focus in interdisciplinary approaches to violence prevention.

ABIGAIL BOYER

Abigail Boyer is the Director of Communications and Outreach for the Clery Center for Security On Campus. Abigail graduated from West Chester University with a degree in Political Science. Prior to working for the Clery Center, Abigail was the Community Outreach Coordinator for the Prevention/Education department of The Crime Victims' Center of Chester County, Inc, whose mission is to support and empower victims of crime while increasing awareness of violence and its impact on victims and the community. Abigail has a passion for victim advocacy and is pleased to use her background in victims' services while coordinating the organization's communications strategy.

CONDENCIA BRADE

Condencia Brade is the co-founder and Executive Director for the National Organization of Sisters of Color Ending Sexual Assault (SCESA). SCESA is a Women of Color-led nonprofit dedicated to working with our communities to create a just society in which Women of Color are able to live healthy lives free of violence. As a national advocacy organization, SCESA utilizes a multi-strategy approach of leadership enhancement and support for Women of Color; advocacy and support for organizations by and for Communities of Color; as well as technical assistance, training and systems advocacy regarding sexual assault in Communities of Color. Condencia has a strong history working on issues related to Communities of Color and other marginalized communities, Children, Teens, and College Students. Prior to founding SCESA, Condencia worked at a statewide sexual assault coalition where she was instrumental in the creation and responsible for the management of a statewide Spanish Hotline, created a statewide Campus Consortium; a Youth group to address sexual assault; and a statewide team on Rural issues. She was also responsible for the provision of trainings for sexual assault crisis centers, law enforcement and healthcare providers addressing sexual assault. She has focused on issues such as leadership, immigration, economics, and health. She has also provided training and served on national committees to address systemic responses to sexual assault victims.

TED BUNCH

Ted Bunch is the Co-founder of A CALL TO MEN. He is recognized both nationally and internationally for his expertise in organizing and educating men in the effort to end violence against women. He is dedicated to strengthening community accountability to end all forms of violence against women. Ted is formerly the Senior Director and Co-creator of the largest program for domestic violence offenders in America. Ted has worked with Police and Fire Departments, Emergency Medical Technicians, Paramedics and other first responders to domestic violence. Ted has served as a consultant to The White House Commission on Violence Against Women and Girls, the Department of Justice Office of Violence Against Women. He is a recognized trainer, lecturer and consultant on male accountability. A committed ally for more than a dozen years, Ted has gained leadership status in the domestic violence, rape and sexual assault prevention communities across the country. Ted brings a great enthusiasm and a wealth of knowledge to his work. He has trained at many colleges and universities throughout the United States as well as the National Football League. In addition, he has had guest appearances on numerous television and radio programs and has been a script consultant for Law & Order: Special Victims Unit. He has traveled abroad speaking in places like Israel, Suriname, South Africa, Ghana, Brasil and Puerto Rico as well as being an invited guest presenter for the United Nations' Commission on the Status of Women and the UN Alliance of Civilizations. Ted is an international lecturer for the U.S. State Department and was appointed by UN Secretary General Ban Ki- moon as a Committee Member to UNiTE, an international network of male leaders working to end violence against women.

MARÍA DEL CARMEN CABRERA APONTE

María del Carmen Cabrera Aponte, M.A. graduated Magna Cum Laude in 2001 from a Bachelor in Arts in Psychology of the University of Puerto Rico, Ponce Campus. Her major is in Social/Community Psychology. Cabrera worked six years as a research assistant in a project named "Encounter between genders". The main focus of the research was sexual behavior of gay couples towards HIV prevention. As part of the research project duties Cabrera had to travel to international conferences in Perú, Guatemala, Argentina and the Dominican Republic. She also was a presenter at the Bankog International HIV Congress in Tailand, 2004. In 2005 Cabrera received a scholarship to finish her master' s dissertation named "Coming out: Gay Men in PR". She has also worked on research on public policy and psychology. As part of her duties she supervised 15 students. In 2006 she worked on a research study on Asma in Puerto Rico at the Institute of Behavioral Sciences of the Medical Sciences Campus. In 2007 she graduated Cum Laude of a Masters in Psychology. In 2008, she begun working at the Rape Victims Support Center at the Department of Health. She has published several articles in professional journals such as: (2009). Gender and women sexuality . (2008). Teach to teach: challenge for Education (2008). Psychologist and legislature: Promising relationship. (2008). Social-community Psychology and public policy Since 2008 Cabrera is a professor at the Social Sciences Faculty, the University of Puerto Rico. That same year she was awarded with a prize from the CIES/UPR for her work " New teaching strategies: challenges to High School Education".

DAISY CACERES

Daisy Caceres was born and raised in Los Angeles, California. Ms. Caceres is a graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara with a double major in Sociology and Chicano Studies. Since August 2011, she serves as the Crisis Intervention Coordinator with the Santa Barbara Rape Crisis Center and is a Certified Sexual Assault Counselor. During Ms. Caceres's time at the center she has had the opportunity to participate in additional trainings: Suicide Prevention, Institutional

Advocacy, CA Victim Advocate Training in Human Trafficking of Minors, as well as an extensive training for Long Term Counseling.

RACHEL CAIDOR

Rachel Caidor, Associate Director, Campus Advocacy Network at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC).

LIZ CASCONE

Liz Cascone, MSW, is the Advocacy Manager at the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance. In her current role she coordinates programming and advocacy efforts related to primary prevention, public policy, data collection, and resource development. Liz has extensive experience in sexual and intimate partner violence primary prevention planning and program development. This experience is rooted in sound public health and social justice principles. Liz has experience developing prevention campaigns and strategies, such as The Red Flag Campaign and DoYou Campaign, and using social marketing techniques to reach various audiences. Previously, Liz worked at the local level for six years. She began her work doing community education in rural Virginia for a sexual and domestic violence program and after three years held the position of Program Director. Liz received her Masters of Social Work from Virginia Commonwealth University in 2000.

CYMANTHA

Cymantha is a senior at Camelback High School. They are the Senior Class Vice President in Camelback's Student Government and have been actively involved in STAND & SERVE for over a year. Cymantha is an after school peer educator at Machan K-8 school, volunteers regularly in their community and is assisting with developing and implementing S&S evaluation tools for students and families. Cymantha is deeply committed to cultivating SAFETY, EQUALITY AND RESPECT as norms to prevent the underlying conditions of sexual violence including oppression, silence/denial and normalized harm.

CRISTIAN CASTRO

Cristian Castro is an 18 year old Mexican college student studying to be an elementary school teacher. He has been a member of STAND & SERVE for four years, a youth organization educating on primary prevention of violence in all its forms. Cristian is also an advocate against misogyny and oppressive norms.

ELI CHEVALIER

Eli Chevalier is a STAND & SERVE Peer Educator and a Junior and GSA President at Tempe High school in Tempe, Arizona. For the past five years, Eli has been very active learning about and working to prevent sexual violence before it begins including facilitating workshops with sexual violence prevention and treatment providers across the state and speaking at conferences and events. Eli speaks about gender identity and LGBTQ activism related topics. Eli's expertise covers Primary Prevention, Trans* identities, how to be inclusive of new identities, proper terminology, different queer theories and use of pronouns making sure to highlight statistics and resources. Eli is deeply committed to cultivating safety, equality and respect (SER) as norms to prevent the underlying conditions of sexual violence including oppression, silence/denial and normalized (OSN) harm. Eli believes understanding and promoting respect for all identities on individual and societal levels is critical to effective primary prevention programming. Eli hosted March 2013's STAND & SERVE Day at the Capitol, is a peer educator Tuesdays and Wednesdays after school and during the summer, develops and updates curriculum and volunteers regularly in the community. Eli also is an actor and plays and writes music.

JACOB CHEVALIER

Jacob Chevalier is a junior at Bio Science High School in Phoenix Arizona. He joined STAND & SERVE (S&S) five years ago and now serves as the STAND & SERVE Coalition Co-Chair, Peer Solutions Board Member and Peer Educator. Jacob develops, implements, evaluates and helps sustain year round primary prevention activities to prevent sexual violence before it begins. Jacob is deeply committed to cultivating SAFETY, EQUALITY & RESPECT (SER) as norms to prevent the underlying conditions of harm including OPPRESSION, SILENCE/DENIAL & NORMALIZED (OSN) harm. To internalize SER as norms to end OSN, Jacob has led the coalition in developing a new initiative entitled THE GUTS TO BE GOOD (G2BG), an initiative that emphasizes five things we can all do to make this world a better place. 1. The guts to be Respectful, 2. The guts to be Courteous, 3. The guts to Speak-Up, 4. The guts to be Honest and 5. The guts to Lend a Hand. Jacob hosts Bi-Annual STAND & SERVE Days at the Capitol, including the October Arizona Summit chosen by HHS and Joe Biden's Office to treat and prevent IPV. He is a peer educator on Mondays after school, volunteers regularly and is the solution.

MAIA CHRISTOPHER

Maia Christopher is currently the Executive Director of the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers (ATSA). Ms. Christopher has 18 years' experience providing treatment services to individuals who have offended. She has worked with Correctional Services of Canada and Washington State Department of Corrections. Ms. Christopher has presented extensively in the areas of practice guidelines of sex offender treatment, collaborating with community stakeholders invested in successful offender reintegration and policy pertaining to sexual offending. Ms. Christopher has held the position of Executive Director of ATSA for six years. ATSA is an international organization dedicated to the prevention of sexual abuse. ATSA promotes evidence based practice, public policy and community strategies that lead to the effective assessment, treatment and management of individuals who have sexually abused or are at risk to abuse.

CRISTY CHUNG

Cristy Chung is currently the Program and Operations Manager at Asian & Pacific Islander Institute on Domestic Violence. She has over twenty-five years of experience working in the anti-violence movement. Cristy began this work at UCSC in the Women's Studies and Sociology departments. Cristy joined the staff at the Asian Women's Shelter in San Francisco in the first year the shelter opened. During her 10 years there Cristy started their volunteer program, founded their Queer Asian Women's program, lead their

Multi-lingual Access Model program, and helped the shelter find a permanent home. In recent years Cristy has focused her social justice and social change work on community mobilization and school climate change in the education system that engages the entire community – educators, administrators, parents/care givers, students and local community members. Cristy has worked extensively in the fields of diversity and anti-bias education, school climate change, cross-cultural service delivery, domestic violence intervention and prevention, and LGBT inclusive curriculum building. She is an experienced leader, trainer, facilitator, writer and community organizer. She is proudly the parent of 3 teenage girls that inform her work on a daily basis and make her question everything she has ever learned about parenting. She is currently interested in conversations about working at the intersections of race, gender and sexuality and ways to build our work across fields. Cristy is committed to finding creative solutions that offer us innovative opportunities to build and sustain the changes we desire. For fun she loves traveling and going on new adventures with the love of her life and their 3 girls

TRACY COX

Tracy Cox is the Communications Director at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center (NSVRC). Her job encompasses leading the Communications Department, creating NSVRC publications and working with members of the media to convey timely information about sexual violence prevention. Before joining the NSVRC in 2010, Cox's career focused on print media and graphic design.

LINDA CROCKETT

For more than a decade, she was an award-winning designer/copy editor at newspapers including The Tuscaloosa News, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution and The Patriot-News. She has attended The Poynter Institute in 2003 and most recently, in 2012 for a McCormick Specialized Reporting Institute on child sexual abuse. She worked with Poynter's NewsU create a free, online course for journalists called Reporting on Sexual Violence.

YESENIA CURIEL

Yesenia Curiel is a native of Los Angeles and identifies as a Chicana, Feminist and Vegan. She relocated to Santa Barbara about 12 years ago, holds a MA in Clinical Psychology. She has over 13 years in the Sexual Assault field. Yesenia is the Program Director at Santa Barbara Rape Crisis Center (SBRCC) and has been involved with the organization since 2001. She has experience as an agency advocate covering its 24-hour hotline to over five years experience in management. She has worked with men survivors, youth and monolingual Spanish speaking sexual assault survivors. She has developed curriculum for prevention groups targeting Latino youth to tailoring curriculum's for monolingual Spanish speaking women support groups. Her community involvement includes work with marginalized youth to addressing various forms of oppressions, political consciousness, human rights and mental health issues. Yesenia has been involved with the following community organizations: City of Santa Barbara Community Development & Human Services Committee as the Latina/o representative, serving as a board member of the Santa Barbara Women's Political Committee and being a board member on California Coalition Against Sexual Assault (CALCASA).

MORGAN J. CURTIS

For the last decade, Morgan has worked to address issues of violence against women, through a variety of community, academic and organizational roles. Her specialty is building the capacity of organizations to conduct comprehensive, community-based primary prevention initiatives. The primary areas in which Morgan focuses her capacity building efforts are program planning/evaluation, organizational integration of prevention, and the intersection of social justice issues and violence prevention. Morgan started work at TAASA in 2006 as an intern while she was finishing her master's degree in social work and also working at the Institute on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault. Since 2008, she has served as TAASA's Director of Prevention Programs. In this role, she provides direction and leadership to all of the agency's statewide prevention efforts, including coordination of the statewide Primary Prevention Planning Committee. She also served on the leadership team for Project Connect, a statewide initiative exploring the intersections between primary health care and violence prevention. Additionally, Morgan serves as an adjunct lecturer at the University of Texas at Austin School of Social Work and also teaches yoga to individuals and groups in Austin.

KIM DAWKINS

Kim Dawkins, Executive Director, Pathways for Change

LINDA C. DEGUTIS

Dr. Degutis is Director of the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in Atlanta, Georgia, USA. Previously, she was Associate Professor of Emergency Medicine and Public Health at Yale University, serving as Research Director for the Department of Emergency Medicine, and Director of the Yale Center for Public Health Preparedness at the Yale School of Public Health. In addition, she directed the Connecticut Center for Public Health Workforce Development. A native of Chicago, Illinois, Dr. Degutis received her BS from DePaul University, and MSN and DrPH from Yale. As a Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Health Policy Fellow she worked in the office of the late Senator Paul Wellstone (D-MN). Dr. Degutis' research and practice interests have focused on injury and violence, alcohol and other drug problems, and trauma, with a particular interest in policy issues. She has also collaborated on projects related to developing a research agenda for public health systems and services research, and initiatives in the area of quality improvement in public health. She was President of the American Public Health Association, a member of the APHA Executive Board, serving two terms as its chair. She co-chaired the Connecticut Coalition to Stop Underage Drinking, and was involved in a number of community-based efforts focused on improving public health through coalition development and action. Dr. Degutis serves on the Robert Wood Johnson Health Policy Fellowship Advisory Board, and the editorial board of the journal Injury Prevention.

ALLISION DEVITO

Captain Allison DeVito is Chief of the Victim Issues and Policy Branch, Military Justice Division, Air Force Legal Operations Agency, Joint Base Andrews, MD. In this capacity, Capt DeVito develops and implements programs and policies concerning victim related issues including the Special Victims' Counsel Program; oversees the Air Force's Victim and Witness Assistance Program; and coordinates with other divisions within the Air Staff and the JAG Corps to implement victim services programs.

PUJA DHAWAN

Puja Dhawan, Senior Manager, NoVo Foundation's Initiatives for Girls and Women

DIANE DOCIS

Diane Docis previously served as the Deputy Staff Judge Advocate at Rome Laboratory and the Chief of Justice at Luke Air Force Base. She received a direct commission as an Air Force judge advocate in July 2008 and entered active duty in August 2008. Prior to entering the Air Force, she served as a law clerk at the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia and as a Legislative Assistant to Congresswoman Betty Sutton. She is admitted to practice law before the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, the Air Force Court of Criminal Appeals, and the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces.

EDGAR DORMITORIO

Edgar Dormitorio, Director, Student Conduct, UC Irvine

DOROTHY J. EDWARDS

Dr. Dorothy J. Edwards, author of the Green Dot Violence Prevention Strategy, holds a Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Texas Woman's University. Prior to her current position, serving as the Executive Director of Green Dot, etc., a center dedicated to effective intervention and prevention of power-based personal violence, Dr. Edwards served for five years as the founding Director of the University of Kentucky Violence Intervention and Prevention Center. She has worked in both counseling and teaching capacities in higher education. With a specialty in primary prevention, she provides training and consultation in the areas of power-based personal violence, organizational capacity building, program implementation, strategic planning and community mobilization. Dr. Edwards is currently working with government entities, state coalitions, military, non-profits, community organizations, elementary, middle and high schools, and colleges from around the globe.

RANDY ELLISON

Randy Ellison. Author of the book Boys Don't Tell: Ending the Silence of Abuse, Ellison is a child sexual abuse victim's advocate and an activist promoting cultural change working with local, state and national organizations. He addresses abuse prevention and healing for survivors from a survivor's perspective. Ellison is a member Child Abuse Network of Southern Oregon, and the Oregon Attorney General's Sexual Assault Task Force. He is a founding member and former board president of OAASIS, Oregon Abuse Advocates and Survivors in Service.

LISA ERICKSON

Lisa Erickson is a meditation instructor and energy worker specializing in women's energetics – the unique attributes of women's subtle body systems. 'Subtle body' is the term used within energy healing traditions to describe the anatomy of energy centers and flows upon which those traditions are based. Examples include yoga, reiki, and acupuncture. Lisa primarily works with chakra, or energy center, traditions, based in the yoga and healing traditions of India and Tibet. Lisa is a certified mindfulness meditation instructor, certified hatha yoga instructor, and graduate of internationally acclaimed author and energy healer Cyndi Dale's 2-year energy healer training program. She has been meditating daily herself for 25 years, and has been teaching meditation and energy work for 12 years. She developed women's energetics workshop, and sexual abuse and trauma recovery workshops, upon request from students in her classes, and eventually took these online. Her popular women's spirituality blog (www.MommyMystic.com) offers a free E-book on healing the subtle body wounds of sexual trauma, and she also offers sliding scale private sessions to survivors of sexual abuse and trauma. She has worked with hundreds of women through these means in the last 5 years, and is a practitioner in The Breathe Network, an organization dedicated to helping survivors of sexual assault find alternative and complementary healing practices. Lisa is also the Buddhism editor for BellaOnline.com, the largest non-profit women's website on the web, and a writer for Buddha Chick Life, an online women's spirituality magazine. She has a self-paced course offered through DailyOm.com on women's energetics. Lisa is a second-degree black belt in Shotokan karate, a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College, a former Fortune 500 technology executive, and mother to 3 kids and 3 pets. She resides in Los Angeles, CA.

MIEKO FAILEY

Mieko Failey is a Loyola Law School Post Graduate Public Interest Fellow at the L.A. Gay and Lesbian Center, providing legal protection to LGBTQ youth survivors of dating violence, bullying, sexual assault and hate crimes. Previously, Mieko interned for The ACLU of Southern California's LGBT Student Rights Project and the L.A. Gay & Lesbian Center's Domestic Violence Legal Advocacy Project. She also interned for The Center for Juvenile Law and Policy, advocating for those who were wrongfully convicted or unfairly sentenced as juveniles. Mieko graduated with highest distinction from The University of California at Berkeley with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology concentrating on Gender and Women's Studies, Identity, and Sexuality and recently graduated from Loyola Law School of Los Angeles where she received her Juris Doctorate with a Public Interest Concentration. While attending Loyola Law School, Mieko was the President of OutLaw, Loyola's LGBTQ student group. She also worked with The Juvenile Rights Project, providing "Know Your Rights Workshops" to high school students targeted by racial profiling, and co-authored an article on human trafficking published in the Huffington Post. Prior to attending law school, Mieko worked as a peer educator conducting workshops on sexual assault, rape and domestic violence to fraternities and sororities on the UC Berkeley campus, and worked for many years as an early childhood educator. She has received awards from the Los Angeles Lesbian and Gay Lawyers Association and The National LGBT Bar Association for her advocacy on behalf of LGBTQ civil rights.

MYRA FERELL-WOMOCHIL

Myra Ferell-Womochil is the Executive Director at Victim Witness Services of Coconino County, but has only been in that role since mid-May of this year. Previous to that, she was the Director of Community Based Services at Northland Family Help Center (NFHC) in Flagstaff, AZ. During her eight years at NFHC, she co-established a county fatality review board reviewing domestic violence homicides, revitalized the Coordinated Community Response Team to Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault, provided legal advocacy for women fleeing domestic violence and developed and implemented two sexual violence prevention programs. In particular, Myra worked on the BARS Project. The BARS Project was started in 2008 in response to the state plan to incorporate sexual violence prevention programs in alcohol serving establishments. The BARS project was so successful that the Arizona Department of Health Services decided to further develop the program and take it across the state. It is now called the Arizona Safer Bars Alliance (ASBA) and has begun being implemented in Flagstaff, Prescott, Prescott Valley, Tucson, Phoenix and Scottsdale. Myra is also very proud to be an Ethnic Studies Professor at Northern Arizona University.

VAL FERGUSON

Val Ferguson, Sisters of Color Ending Sexual Assault (SCESA)

MICHAEL FLEMING

Michael Fleming, Ph.D., is an associate professor of family studies in the School of Applied Human Sciences at UNI. Prior to entering the academic world he was a marriage and family therapist for many years where he specialized in working with families with adolescents. He obtained his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison where much of his work focused on working with communities dealing with at-risk youth issues. He has worked on local, state and federal grants as an evaluator and program development consultant with a particular focus on violence prevention. His research and programmatic interests include violence prevention and early intervention program models with particular focus on men's roles in violence prevention; the etiology of male relational and sexual aggression, high-conflict families; and fathering and nonresidential fathering. He teaches courses on intimate partner violence, family assessment and intervention, and program development.

KATHRYN FORD

As a Senior Associate at the Center for Court Innovation since 2004, Kathryn Ford addresses the issues of domestic violence, sexual assault, and child abuse through needs assessment research, dissemination of best practices, and the provision of training and technical assistance to state and tribal courts, including through the Center's Tribal Justice Exchange. She has published articles in Sexual Assault Report, Family & Intimate Partner Violence Quarterly, and NCADV's The Voice, has authored several Center publications on domestic violence, and has conducted training workshops for over 4,000 participants from multiple disciplines. Ms. Ford also conducts trauma-focused individual and group therapy and provides court support services through the Center's Child and Adolescent Witness Support Program at the Bronx District Attorney's Office. Prior to joining the Center, Ms. Ford was a social worker in Safe Horizon's Supervised Visitation Program at Bronx Family Court and an intern in the Kings County District Attorney's Office's Counseling Services Unit. She received a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology and Sociology from Tufts University and a Master's in Social Work from Columbia University, and is certified in Rape Crisis Counseling.

MARIE FORTUNE

Founder and Senior Analyst at FaithTrust Institute, Dr. Fortune is a pastor, author, educator and practicing ethicist and theologian. Dr. Fortune grew up in North Carolina where she received her undergraduate degree from Duke University. She received her seminary training at Yale Divinity School and was ordained a minister in the United Church of Christ in 1976. After serving in a local parish, she founded the Center for the Prevention of Sexual and Domestic Violence in 1977 and served as Executive Director until 1999. Today this nonprofit is known as FaithTrust Institute, where Dr. Fortune serves as Founder and Senior Analyst. FaithTrust Institute is a national, multifaith, multicultural organization providing religious communities and advocates with training, consultation and educational materials to address the faith aspects of abuse. She was Editor of The Journal of Religion and Abuse (2000–2008) and served on the National Advisory Council on Violence Against Women for the U.S. Department of Justice (1995–2000) and the Defense Task Force on Domestic Violence for the U.S. Department of Defense (2000–2003). For more information regarding FaithTrust Institute presenters and services, please contact training@faithtrustinstitute.org.

GRACE FRANCES

Grace Frances serves as the Certification and Programs Manager at the Florida Council Against Sexual Violence (FCASV), overseeing the certification of Florida's 29 rape crisis programs and developing and providing training for a variety of local, statewide and national groups on sexual violence issues. She founded the Statewide Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) Advisory Committee, a joint project of FCASV, the Office of the Attorney General and the Florida Sheriff's Association. Ms. Frances established and coordinates FCASV's rural sexual assault project which is in its second round of funding through the Office on Violence Against Women. The project funds sexual assault victim services and SART development in four rural counties. Ms. Frances has worked as a community organizer for non-profit public interest groups and worked for the Florida House of Representatives. She received her bachelor's degree in Eugene, Oregon from the University of Oregon.

ANTHONY FRISBEE

Anthony Frisbee, Detective Sergeant UC Irvine Police Department

NATE GALBREATH

Nate Galbreath is the Senior Executive Advisor, Accountability and Assessment, for the Department of Defense Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (SAPRO). In this position, he directs or consults on DoD Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) programs, training initiatives, and research involving applications of behavioral health, forensic science, criminal investigation, and program evaluation. Dr. Galbreath reports directly to the SAPRO Director, who serves as the single point of authority, accountability, and oversight for the SAPR program in the Department of Defense. While serving as a Special Agent with the Air Force Office of Special Investigations, Dr. Galbreath earned a Master of Forensic Science from the George Washington University, Washington, DC in 1993. He earned a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS), Bethesda, MD in 2004. He has also completed a number of internships and fellowships, including a fellowship in Forensic Medicine at the Office of the Armed Forces Medical Examiner, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, Washington, DC, and a clinical psychology residency at Malcolm Grow Medical Center, Andrews Air Force Base, MD. He also evaluated and treated sex offenders with Dr. Fred S. Berlin at the National Institute for the Study, Prevention and Treatment of Sexual Trauma, Baltimore, MD. He is currently a licensed psychologist in the state of Maryland.

MICHELLE M. GARCIA

Michelle M. Garcia has worked to end violence against women for over twenty years, and since 2006 has led the Stalking Resource Center (SRC) of the National Center for Victims of Crime in meeting its mission to enhance the ability of professionals, organizations, and systems to effectively respond to stalking. She coordinates all aspects of the SRC's provision of training and technical assistance, material and resource development, and media relations. Ms. Garcia has provided training and assistance on various aspects of stalking to tens of thousands of professionals internationally. Additionally, she manages the day to day operations of the SRC, including project development, strategic planning, grant writing and administration, budget development and administration, and hiring and supervising staff. Prior to joining the SRC, Michelle was a Program Specialist with the U.S. Department of Justice Office for Victims of Crime. Previously, she had worked in community-based sexual assault and domestic violence programs as an administrator, advocate, crisis counselor, and an educator and trainer on topics, including sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and dismantling oppression. She is a former President of the Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault. Ms. Garcia currently serves on the Editorial Board of the Sexual Assault Report, the American Bar Association Commission on Domestic & Sexual Violence, and the Advisory Board of School and College Organization for Prevention Educators (SCOPE). She received her Master of Public Policy degree from the University of Chicago.

ZOE GASCON

Zoë Gascon is the Legal Projects Coordinator at the Vermont Network Against Domestic and Sexual Violence. Zoë began working in the movement to end violence against women as a volunteer with a shelter program while in graduate school in Wyoming in the early 1990s. She worked for 12 years at a community Domestic and Sexual Violence Program as both an advocate and the Program Coordinator. Zoë also worked as the advocate with a special domestic violence prosecution unit in rural Vermont and also spent a year as an Americorps/ VISTA volunteer for a domestic and sexual violence program. Zoë has a B.S. in Secondary Education/Social Science, an M.A. in American Studies and enjoys outdoor activities with her partner, two children, and two dogs.

THERESA GERRIOR

Theresa Gerior conducts formal investigations and informal resolution of complaints alleging discrimination, retaliation, sexual harassment, and sexual assault. She responds to complaints filed with outside agencies including the Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and the Office of Civil Rights (OCR). Theresa also conducts a variety of presentations and workshops on sexual harassment prevention, nondiscrimination, diversity, cultural awareness, and cross-cultural communication for students, faculty and staff. She earned her B.A. at the University of New Hampshire, where she double majored in Political Science and Women's Studies. She holds a Master's degree from Simmons College in Gender and Cultural Studies, and a Master of Dispute Resolution Degree from Pepperdine University School of Law. Prior to joining UCI, she worked as a discrimination investigator for the State of New Hampshire.

MARK S. GHILARDUCCI

Mark S. Ghilarducci is the Director of the California Governor's Office of Emergency Services. Prior to his appointment, Ghilarducci was a partner and managing director at Diamante Partners LLC. He was vice president of Witt and Associates from 2003 to 2011, deputy director for the Governor's Office of Emergency Services from 2000 to 2003, a federal coordinating officer for the United States Federal Emergency Management Agency from 1997 to 2000 and deputy fire chief for the Governor's Office of Emergency Services from 1988 to 1997.

ANNIKA M. GIFFORD

Annika M. Gifford has both U.S. and international experience in the anti-violence against women movement. Currently, she manages policy and research efforts at the National Resource Center on Domestic Violence including, Building Comprehensive Solutions to Domestic Violence and the DV Evidence Project. Prior to joining the NRCDV, Annika spent four years working in Croatia for the Centre for Women's Studies, Zagreb. Her work focused on gender mainstreaming, capacity building, human rights and justice, and anti-violence against women. While living in Zagreb, Annika also co-founded a Croatian non-profit and non-governmental organization for children and youth with disabilities. After Croatia, Annika pursued a Masters of Arts in Gender and Peace Building from the United Nations mandated University for Peace in Costa Rica, which she received in June 2006. She currently serves on the Advisory Board of the Asian & Pacific Islander Institute on Domestic Violence. Annika loves to cook (and eat), read mysteries, dance and travel, which is particularly adventurous as she has no sense of direction.

PATTI GIGGANS

Patti Giggans, Executive Director POV

MELISSA GOPNIK

Melissa Gopnik is the Managing Director for the Boston Area Rape Crisis Center and a Facilitator of the Independent Rape Crisis Center Peer Exchange. Throughout her career, Ms. Gopnik has combined her talents in strategic planning, translating academic research, program development, and training with a strong commitment to social service. In her work with non-profit agencies as diverse as the Boston Area Rape Crisis Center, the Uphams Corner Health Center, and the Jewish Women's Archive, Ms. Gopnik has envisioned and implemented the kind of strategic plan and new programs that make organizations work smarter and serve their clients better. At the Boston Area Rape Crisis Center, she is involved in developing and delivering new training curricula on preventing sexual violence and developing a national network of independent rape crisis centers. Ms. Gopnik has an MBA and a Diploma in Non-Profit Management from Boston University and a BA from McGill University.

LAURA GRAHAM

Laurie Graham, MSW, has worked with survivors of violence since 2008, first as a volunteer and later as a professional. While in the Master of Social Work (MSW) program at UNC-Chapel Hill, Laurie worked with child survivors of abuse and neglect through the provision of foster care services. She gained further experience working with child, adolescent, and adult survivors of sexual and intimate partner violence and in sexual violence prevention at Family Violence and Rape Crisis Services of Chatham County, NC. After receiving her MSW in 2011, Laurie joined the Orange County Rape Crisis Center as the Crisis Response Coordinator. In this position, she managed the crisis response program, supervised and trained help line volunteers, and coordinated the Orange County Sexual Assault Response Team (SART). In 2012, Laurie became the Center's Programs Director and now oversees the Center's community education, crisis response, Latino/a services, and support group programs; provides training and consultation to community professionals; trains and supervises the Center's volunteer Support Group Facilitators; co-facilitates support groups; and provides crisis intervention services in both English and Spanish. In her current role, Laurie has had the opportunity to collaborate with the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault (NCCASA) in assisting agencies across the state with improving service delivery and programming.

ORLENE GRAY-DAVIS

Orlene Gray-Davis, Sisters of Color Ending Sexual Assault (SCESA)

DONNS GRECO

Donna Greco is the director of training and technical assistance at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center. Donna has worked in the anti-violence and economic justice movements for 14 years, and her work focuses in large part on the intersections of sexual violence and economic insecurity.

KAI M. GREEN

Kai M. Green is a writer, scholar, poet, filmmaker, abolitionist, feminist and whatever else it takes to make a way towards a new and more just world. He examines questions of gendered and racialized violence in his art and scholarship. His film It Gets Messy in Here examines the lives of transgender men and masculine identified women of color and their bathroom experiences. Kai is a PhD candidate in the department of American Studies and Ethnicity at USC, where he is completing his dissertation, "Into the Darkness: A Black Queer (Re)Membering of Los Angeles in a Time of Crises." Kai is member of the Community Coalition to End Sheriff on Inmate Violence in LA County Jails, where he also serves on the editorial board of the organizations' quarterly publication, Dignity and Power Now. Kai is committed to creating consciousness raising art and scholarship. You can find his video work here: <http://www.youtube.com/user/DrGreen85>. He has two Blogs as well: 1) <http://justmyimaginings.blogspot.com> 2) <http://road2darkness.blogspot.com/>. He can be contacted for film screenings, purchases, and/or talks at kai.m.green51@gmail.com or on Twitter: @Kai_MG

WILLIAM GREEN

Dr. Green has been on the faculty of the University of California, Davis Medical School since 1976. He retired as a Clinical Professor of Emergency Medicine in June 2011 but maintains a clinical appointment in Emergency Medicine and remains active in clinical forensic medical research both in the Emergency Department and with the Masters program in Forensic Science. Since 1985 he has been a consultant to the California Emergency Management Agency. Since 1983 Dr. Green participated in the development of the California Medical Protocol for Examination of Sexual Assault Victims and in 2001 chaired the committee that revised the protocol. In 1989, Dr. Green was one of the founders of the Sexual Assault Forensic Evaluation (SAFE) Team at the University of California, Davis Medical Center and served as the team's Medical Director from 1989 to 2010. In 1990, he was appointed by the California Commission on the Status of Women to CalEMA's State Advisory Committee that oversees services to sexual assault victims. In 2007 Dr. Green founded and co-chaired the Forensic Medicine Section in the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP). Most recently Dr. Green was asked to serve as advisor to the U.S. Department of Justice and the White House on sexual assault matters. Dr. Green was one of the founding faculty members of the Graduate Group in Forensic Sciences that created the Forensic Science Masters Program at UC Davis. His primary research interest is sexual assault, which includes the epidemiology of sexual assault, the forensic medical examination, forensic evidence collection and evaluation, the delivery of sexual assault services, and criminal justice outcomes.

EMILY GREYTAK

Emily Greytak, PhD, serves as the Evaluation Coordinator on the Board of Directors of SAFER (Students Active for Ending Rape). SAFER is a national, nonprofit organization that fights sexual violence and rape culture by empowering student-led campaigns to reform college sexual assault policies. Before joining SAFER in 2011, Emily had a long history with student activism - she first became involved in the anti-sexual violence movement as a college student when she coordinated the campus sexual assault education program and helped to rewrite the campus policy. Following her graduation, she worked as a counselor, advocate, and educator at a rape crisis center and then served as the advisor of Students Together Against Acquaintance Rape (STAAR) at the University of Pennsylvania where she received her doctorate in Education. Emily now uses her research skills to further social justice by working with organizations devoted to combating violence and ensuring safe and supportive school environments for all. In addition to her role on the SAFER Board, she is currently the Senior Research Associate at GLSEN (Gay, Lesbian & Straight Education Network) and has also served as a research and evaluation consultant to a variety of non-profit and education organizations, including the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape and Campus Outreach Services. Emily has presented at numerous conferences, such as the National Conference on Campus Sexual Assault, the National Coalition Against Sexual Assault Conference, and the American Educational Research Association Annual Meeting, and her research has been published in a variety of publications, including the Journal of School Violence and the Prevention Researcher.

ALISON HALL

Alison Hall, ED Pittsburgh Action Against Rape

DAWN D. HANKINS

Lieutenant Colonel Dawn D. Hankins is the Chief, Special Victims' Counsel (SVC) Program for the Military Justice Division of the Air Force Legal Operations Agency. She is responsible for developing policies and procedures for the SVC Program and provides professional oversight for 60 judge advocates serving as SVCs. Lt Col Hankins received a direct commission as an Air Force judge advocate in March 1995 and entered active duty in June 1995. She has served as a wing staff judge advocate, deployed staff judge advocate, deputy staff judge advocate, an area defense counsel, and legal advisor for two Aircraft Accident Investigation Boards and for the Air Expeditionary Force Battlelab. She is admitted to practice law before the State of New York Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Third Judicial Department and the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces.

KATIE HANNA

Katie joined OAESV in October 2011. She manages the day to day operations and provides technical assistance, training, coalition building and support to sexual assault service providers across Ohio. She co-chairs the Sexual Assault Advisory Board of Ohio. She holds a Master's degree in Counseling from Ohio University, is a licensed Professional Clinical Counselor and holds a BFA in Photography from the Rochester Institute of Technology. She has an Executive Coaching certificate from the Weatherhead School of Management at CWRU and a certificate from the Women Staff Leadership Development Initiative. Prior to joining OAESV she was the Women's Health Advocate for five years at the Flora Stone Mather Center for Women at CWRU. She is the 2011 recipient of the American College Health Association's New Professional Award through the Ohio College Health Association and contributed as a Task Force member to A Safer Campus, a guidebook on prevention and response to sexual and intimate partner violence and stalking for Ohio campuses.

BEA HANSON

Bea Hanson is the Acting Director of the United States Department of Justice Office on Violence Against Women (OVW). As Director, she serves as the liaison between the Department of Justice and federal, state, tribal, and international governments on matters involving violence against women. She is responsible for developing the Department's legal and policy positions regarding the implementation of the Violence Against Women Act and overseeing an annual budget of nearly $400 million. Prior to her appointment as Acting Director, Ms. Hanson served as OVW's Principal Deputy Director since May 2011.

Ms. Hanson previously served as Chief Program Officer for Safe Horizon, a crime victim service organization in New York City that serves 350,000 victims annually, where she directed a staff of 500 in 60 locations. She joined Safe Horizon (formerly Victim Services) in 1997 as the Director of Emergency Services and went on to oversee the agency's domestic violence, homeless youth, and child abuse programs before being promoted to Chief Program Officer.

Ms. Hanson earned a Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare degree from City University in New York, a Master of Social Work degree from Hunter College School of Social Work in New York, and a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

ALAN HEISTERKAMP

Dr. Heisterkamp is the director of the MVP Leadership Institute at the Center for Violence Prevention at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa. Among his duties as director, he oversees curriculum infusion of bystander strategies within pre-service teacher education program, and MVP training and outreach to Iowa's K-12 educational system. As president and CEO of Cultivating Minds, Inc., Dr. Heisterkamp served as an education consultant and researcher with the Waitt Institute for Violence Prevention on a five-year study, entitled the Sioux City Project, which sought to engage adults in talking to youth about gender violence being wrong, increase the number of youth who believe gender violence is wrong, and increase the number of youth intervene against gender violence. Dr. Heisterkamp has also co-facilitated research on a gender violence prevention program entitled, Coaching Boys Into Men. He frequently speaks to adults and community organizations on bystander education and gender violence prevention strategies and has trained hundreds of high school, college students and educators. Dr. Heisterkamp served as a secondary mathematics teacher, athletic coach, school counselor, and school administrator for 22 years. He holds a Masters degree in educational psychology and counseling and a doctorate degree in secondary school administration.

DEB HELT

Rev. Deb Helt Hosanna Christian Fellowship, Lititz, PA, Certified Safe Church Facilitator

PRENTIS HEMPHILL

Prentis Hemphill is a Black, Queer, gender non-conforming, writer, fundraiser, and politicized healer/therapist born and raised in Texas and currently living in Los Angeles, California. Prentis has worked with Community United Against Violence, generationFIVE, and most recently as a collective member and fundraiser at Gender Justice LA. What has guided Prentis through all of these journeys is a deep commitment to transformative justice responses to harm, to bringing about the end of all forms of oppression, and the possibility of recovering, together, the place where liberation and healing meet.

INDIRA HENDARD

Indira Henard has been employed at the DC Rape Crisis Center since January 2009. In her current role as the Counseling and Advocacy Program Manager she is responsible for managing the client intake system, database system, client outreach as well as special programming and support groups. Indira also see's individual and group clients and she is the Special Assistant to the Director of Counseling and Advocacy & Interim Executive Director. Indira truly is a "Renaissance Woman" at the DC Rape Crisis Center and she keeps "The trains moving on time." Indira received her BA Degree from Wheaton College in Norton, MA and her MA Degree from the University of Chicago. She has also done advance graduate work at Duke University and Georgetown University Law Center. Indira comes to the Violence against Women Movement from a political background, in which her first career was politics and working on the 2008 Presidential Campaign for President Obama. Indira then decided to follow her heart and passion and pursue Violence against Women's Issues full time. She is truly humbled to be working on the frontlines for survivors and considers this her life's work.

SANDRA HENRIQUEZ

Sandra Henriquez has worked in the anti-sexual and domestic violence field since 1985. In 2010, Ms. Henriquez was appointed as the Executive Director of the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault (CALCASA). Prior to 2010, Ms. Henriquez was the Associate Director at a dual, Los Angeles-based (sexual and domestic violence) intervention and prevention agency, Peace Over Violence. Ms. Henriquez is published in the Hastings Women's Law Journal and has been a contributor to numerous publications on issues pertaining to violence against women and children, including the cultural adaptation of a book on teen dating violence, Jovenes: Enamorados y En Peligro. Ms. Henriquez has also been active in local, state and national policy efforts.

CAROL HENSELL

Carol Hensell has been in state service since 1997, and in 2000 became the Program Manager of the Sexual Violence Prevention and Education Program (SVPEP) at the Arizona Department of Health Services (ADHS). She is responsible for overseeing contract compliance and works closely with the Sexual Violence Prevention and Education contractors and the Centers for Disease Control. She has served on the Governor's Commission on Violence Against Women, the Campus Sexual Assault Task Force, Child Abuse / Sexual Assault committee to plan the prevention track of Arizona's statewide conference, sat on the Department of Defense (DOD) Prevention of Sexual Assault Task Force as well as various other committees. Currently she is a regional representative for the Sexual Violence Prevention and Education Directors' Council through the Centers for Disease Control and the State Agency Coordination Team. She also goes “out in field” and does sexual violence training to community groups such as faith-based, teen moms and local cosmetology schools. Additionally she spearheaded Arizona’s first Sexual Violence Prevention and Education PSA which aired in 2004 and won a HEMMY award. In May of 2006 Mrs. Hensell was named by former Governor Napolitano as ‘State Employee of the Month” for her work in the field. In 2009 she was awarded the “Cherish the Children” award for her work in S.V. primary prevention. Mrs. Hensell also is a military wife to an army reservist who has served three tours in theater. (Iraq and Afghanistan). Ms. Hensell has earned recognition by the Department of Defense, as an outstanding mentor to military families through teaching at various family/military academies and one-on-one meetings. With respect to ASBA, she co-presented two webinars about ASBA with sexual violence prevention and education half-time Epidemiologist. One was to the alcohol-workgroup at the Centers for Disease Control and the other was to the Florida Department of Health. Mrs. Hensell also conducted the first multi-session pilot of the ASBA curriculum.

LEIGH NACHMAN-HOFHEIMER

Leigh Nachman Hofheimer has over 25 years of experience in the field of domestic violence work. She has worked in community-based domestic violence advocacy programs, battered women’s shelters, and as an advocate for battered women and their children in the health care system, criminal and civil legal system as well as general systems advocacy within a variety of institutions. She has trained multi-disciplined practitioners including: health care providers in clinic and hospital settings, domestic and sexual violence advocates, representatives of criminal and civil legal system, social service agencies and batterer’s intervention treatment providers. (Program Coordinator for PPWT, Washington Coalition Against Domestic Violence)

LEAH HOLLAND

Leah Holland, Program Coordinator for the Pregnant and Parenting Women and Teens Grant, Washington Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs

DYAMOND HOUSTON

Dyamond Houston is a Long Walk Home, Inc. Girl/Friends alumna. At the Coalition, she works to develop public policy statewide that supports the self-determination and safety of survivors of domestic violence (and their children). Additionally, Leigh provides technical assistance and training to Coalition members which include direct service victim/survivor advocacy agencies and individuals throughout Washington State.

DOLORES HUERTA

Dolores Huerta is the President of the Dolores Huerta Foundation and Co-founder of the United Farm Workers (UFW). Her lifelong journey has been working as a Community Organizer and Social Activist for over 50 years. Huerta has played a major role in the American Civil Rights Movement. A founding board member of the Feminist Majority Foundation, she also serves on the board of Ms. Magazine. Numerous awards received among the Eleanor Roosevelt Human Rights Award from President Clinton '98, Ms. Magazine’s one of the three most important women of '97, Ladies Home Journal’s 100 most important woman of the 20th Century, Puffin Foundation award for Creative Citizenship Labor Leader Award 1984, Kern County's woman of the year by California State legislature, the Ohtli award from the Mexican Government, Smithsonian Institution - James Smithson Award and the Icons of the American Civil Rights Movement Award, bestowed to her in 2011 by the National Civil Rights Museum. She is a former UC Regent and has earned nine honorary doctorates from universities throughout the United States. Her most recent recognitions include her induction to the U.S. Department of Labor Hall of Honor, the 2012 Presidential Medal of Freedom and the California Hall of Fame in 2013. As one of the most famous and celebrated Latinas in the U.S., Huerta has been an advocate for women's rights and reproductive freedom. She continues working to develop community leaders, for working poor, immigrants, women and youth, with the Dolores Huerta Foundation. She speaks at universities or organizational forums on issues of social justice and public policy.

SANDRA HUNTZINGER

Sandra Huntzinger, MSW. Ms. Huntzinger has been a committed advocate on the issue of sexual and domestic violence for over a decade. She started as a legal advocate working as a liaison between the courts and local domestic violence shelter. For over six years Ms. Huntzinger worked on public policy through her position with the Ohio Domestic Violence Network (ODVN) and was integral in developing ODVN's Training Institute. She continues her role making systemic change in her current position as the Victim Service Coordinator for the Ohio Attorney General's Sexual Assault Forensic Exam program. In this position, she manages a $3.5 million reimbursement program for sexual assault evidence collection kits and has expanded the program by offering technical assistance and training on sexual assault and domestic violence. Ms. Huntzinger facilitates a statewide team of sexual assault experts on modeling the benefits of Sexual Assault Response Teams (SART), with the overarching goal of helping communities respond with a continuum of care for survivors of sexual violence.

CHRISTI HURT

Christi Hurt has been advocating to end sexual violence and support victims/survivors for more than 20 years. She has worked as an advocate and a staff administrator at her local rape crisis center, as the Associate/Acting Director at the Washington Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs, and on the National Sexual Assault Resource Sharing Project as a technical assistance provider and publications specialist. She is currently the Director of the Carolina Women's Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where she focused on gender equity/social justice organizing for staff, students, and faculty on campus. Christi also serves as the Project Coordinator for the North Carolina Coalition for the Prevention of Child Sexual Abuse, which is in partnership with Prevent Child Abuse North Carolina and the Ms. Foundation for Women. In that role, Christi helps to coordinate statewide efforts to end CSA through systems reform, policy development, and community collaboration. Christi has her Master in Public Administration, with a specialization in nonprofit management, and lives in Chapel Hill, NC with her two sons, partner, and high-anxiety dog.

HEATHER IMRIE

Heather Imrie M.Ed. is a popular anti-violence and social justice educator from Chicago IL with over fifteen years experience advocating for survivors and providing prevention and awareness programming. She has developed curriculum, and provided training for military, advocacy, police, medical and collegiate audiences. She served as a subject matter expert (SME) and trainer for the U.S. Air Force-wide Bystander Intervention initiative; co-developed and taught a Gender and Women's Studies Peer Education class at The University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) entitled :Peer Educators Reducing Campus Violence Creating Social Change and created training for the Catharsis Productions prevention initiative at Naval Station Great Lakes. She is the creator of "the Hook-Up" and the co-creator of the "Force of Awesome Institute" a program that incorporates active coaching and curriculum analysis for violence prevention educators. Ms. Imrie is the former Associate Director of the Campus Advocacy Network (CAN) at UIC. She is currently the Director of Program Development for Catharsis Productions. Ms. Imrie has a M.Ed. in Educational Leadership from the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) and is currently working towards her PhD in Educational Psychology at the UIC.

WENDY IVY

Wendy Ivy is the Director of Outreach & Community Services for the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center in Gurnee Illinois. Wendy has been at the Center for 12 years and has worked in social service for 28 years. Prior to her work with the Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center, she worked alongside People with Disabilities in all aspects of their lives for 16 years. Currently she Chairs the Lake County SANE/SART Task Force, sits on the core committee of the Lake County Sexual Assault Coordinating Council and is the Chair of the Lake County Illinois Imagines committee. Illinois Imagines is a statewide initiative assuring that people with disabilities receive accurate training on sexual assault and abuse, know their rights, and receive comprehensive care after an assault. Illinois Imagines blends Wendy's work and experience with people with disabilities with her passion for anti-violence work. Wendy will continue to work to extend her mission of ending sexual violence to all people.

MACILLA (KILA) JAGER

Macilla (Kila) Jager

CHAI JINDASURAT

Chai Jindasurat is the National Coalition of Anti-Violence Programs (NCAVP) Coordinator at the New York City Anti-Violence Project. NCAVP is a national coalition that works to prevent, respond to, and end all forms of violence against and within lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, and HIV-affected (LGBTQH) communities. NCAVP strives to increase power, safety, and resources for LGBTQH communities through data analysis, policy advocacy, education, and technical assistance. Prior to becoming the NCAVP Coordinator, Chai worked at The Network/La Red as an LGBTQ anti-violence organizer in Boston, Massachusetts and as the Outreach and Education Coordinator at the Kansas City Anti-Violence Project in Kansas City, Missouri. Chai entered LGBTQ organizing work as a campus organizer, peer-counselor, and community educator while in the LGBT Housing Liaison position at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. He is a member of the Gay Asian Pacific-Islander Men of New York, and is a former member of the Queer Asian Pacific-Islander Alliance in Boston. Chai has presented for local, regional, and national audiences including the National Center for Victims of Crime annual conference and the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force's Creating Change conference. He has been chosen to attend prestigious national roundtables and forums including the Department of Justice's Office for Victims of Crime's Vision 21: Enduring Challenges stakeholder forum and the Asian and Pacific-Islander Institute on Domestic Violence's roundtable: Engaging Asian Men in Gender Equity. Chai has been featured in local, regional, and national publications including the Huffington Post, the Advocate and the Boston Globe.

VIVIAN JOJOLA

Vivian Jojola is a Program Director at JDI. She has been an advocate for survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault for more than two decades. She previously served as the Director of Volunteer Services at the YWCA of Glendale and at Caring for Children and Families with AIDS, both in Los Angeles, and as co-chair of the Board of Directors of the Sexual Assault Crisis Agency, in Long Beach, California. Earlier in her career, she worked to reduce the transmission of HIV/AIDS among high risk populations including sex workers, IV drug users, and the homeless. Prior to joining JDI, Vivian spent nearly a decade at the Liberty Hill Foundation.

STEPHANIE JONES

Stephanie Jones is the Victim Advocacy Specialist for the Campus Advocacy Resources & Education (CARE) program at UCSB. Stephanie has a Masters in Counseling Psychology, is a state certified domestic violence and sexual assault advocate. In her role as a victim advocate Stephanie works with survivors of sexual assault, sexual harassment, domestic/dating violence and stalking. Stephanie works with survivors to ensure that they are aware of resources both through UCSB and in the Santa Barbara community. Stephanie serves on the UCSB Coordinated Community Response team and has trained campus teaching assistants, psychologists and student health care providers on responding to student survivors of interpersonal violence. Stephanie regularly presents to student leadership organizations about sexual assault, prevention and response. She has worked extensively with the UCSB Greek student population in an effort further their knowledge on prevention, bystander intervention and responding to survivors. Stephanie has been responsible for the redesign of the UCSB CARE program website and worked to make the website more accessible to survivors, their friends and family members as well as faculty and staff who are seeking services for student survivors. Stephanie is committed to her work as an advocate for those affected by interpersonal violence and is thrilled to be a part of the CARE program at UCSB.

MEGAN E. JONES-WILLIAMS

Megan E. Jones-Williams brings an educational background in interpersonal communication to her work in the movement to end violence against women. She has worked as an advocate, educator, counselor, and activist with crisis centers and gender violence prevention programs in Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri. She has created volunteer programs, pioneered community awareness campaigns, coordinated conferences, counseled survivors, and provided numerous trainings for victim advocates. As part of her current position as the Rape Crisis Services Program Coordinator at The Women's Center, Inc. in Southern Illinois, Megan supervises counseling and advocacy services for victims of sexual violence as well as educational and outreach efforts in the community. She is responsible for managing the program budget, writing/reporting of state and federal grants, and providing leadership and vision for the program. Megan has been the co-chair for the Carbondale-SIU Sexual Assault Response Committee, and she provides leadership for the Southern Illinois men's anti-violence group, Progressive Masculinities Mentors. Since beginning work in the gender violence field in 2001, Megan has attended and presented at numerous local, regional, and national conferences. She recently co-presented the workshop "Dialoguing Pop Culture: Facilitating Critical Consciousness in Prevention Education" at the 2012 National Sexual Assault Conference. Additionally, Megan is an active member of the Governing Body for the Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault (ICASA), which provides funding, training, and technical assistance to rape crisis centers in Illinois. For ICASA, Megan is currently the chair of the Contracts Review Committee and a member of the Executive Committee; she previously served as chair for the Program Committee, attended the Training Committee, assisted with several grievance investigations, and participated in strategic planning sessions. Megan's passion in this field is ensuring that survivors from all walks of life have access to the services necessary for their recovery, and teaching issues of respect and understanding with the ultimate goal of ending all forms of oppression. In addressing the issue of sexual assault, Megan values a comprehensive approach that combines high quality service provision with proactive prevention education.

AMY JUNG

Amy Jung, Executive Director, Zacharias Sexual Abuse Center

NINA JUSUF

Nina Jusuf has been involved in Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault issues since 1992. She started as a volunteer and several years later held the Executive Director position of a Rape Crisis Center in San Francisco. Nina co-founded a crisis center in Indonesia in 1997 and assisted Volunteer of Human Rights in Jakarta, Indonesia in setting up support for victims of mass rape after the May 1998 riot. After experiencing burnout and watching other sisters leave the movement due to exhaustion, she started learning and practicing trauma-based wellness techniques. She has been trained and mentored as a trainer by the Capacitar International training team in Trauma-Informed wellness and has facilitated sustaining activism and security workshops for Women Human Rights Defenders and nongovernmental organizations' staff globally: USA, Regional Asia, Indonesia, Timor Leste, Serbia and the Balkans. Nina co-founded NAPIESV and currently is an advisor for Global Fund for Women, Urgent Action Fund, Capacitar International and Board member of a Youth LBT organization in Indonesia.

ANNE KANITRA

Anne Kanitra has earned a Bachelor Degree from Michigan State University in Criminal Justice and Psychology and has been a certified police officer for over 30 years. She has had many roles in the police field including, road patrol, undercover, Detective/Sergeant, Instructor, and Field training officer. Anne is considered an experienced investigator in major crimes, including sexual assault. She is currently an Instructor for Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement Standards (MCOLES), specializing in Sexual Assault Investigations for law enforcement officers, victim advocates, and prosecutors. In addition, she is currently an Investigator in the Criminal Investigations Division at the Wayne County Prosecutor's office.

BARBARA KAPPOS

Barbara Kappos, LCSW currently serves as the Executive Director of the East Los Angeles Women's Center in Los Angeles, California. Ms. Kappos has 25 years of experience working in the East Los Angeles community providing services to families in need. Ms. Kappos has established a variety of service models based on best practices and culturally relevant interventions. Ms. Kappos is a licensed social worker with experience in the field of social work and has been influential in the areas of child welfare, HIV/AIDS, domestic violence, sexual assault and substance abuse recovery. For over two decades she has provided culturally and gender specific strengthening programs for women and their children.

BARBARA KAUFMAN

Dr. Kaufman is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and a Professor of Psychology at Portland State University (PSU) in Portland, Oregon. He has chaired state prevention committees in Ohio and Oregon and co-chaired the committee that created Oregon's first statewide sexual violence prevention plan. Dr. Kaufman is also a member of the National Coalition to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse and Exploitation. He was on the board of the National Alliance of Sexual Assault Coalitions and is a Past President of the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers. His clinical work has involved the assessment and treatment of both child sexual abuse victims and juvenile sexual offenders. Dr. Kaufman has provided program consultation in the areas of prevention, intervention, program evaluation, and research. He has developed psycho-educational treatment modules for juvenile sex offenders incarcerated by the states of Oregon and Ohio. Dr. Kaufman currently provides prevention and safety consultation to Boys & Girls Clubs of America and Big Brothers and Big Sisters of America. He also provides technical assistance to RPE funded prevention programs in Oregon. Dr. Kaufman has authored two books, a variety of book chapters, and numerous research articles addressing sexual violence and sexual violence prevention. This work has been supported by a number of Federal, State, and local grants. His most recent book, Preventing Sexual Violence: A Practitioner's Sourcebook (NEARI Press, 2010) is a comprehensive sexual violence prevention volume. Dr. Kaufman co-authored the first prevention chapter to be included in Interpol's member manual. He was also recently awarded a Vision of Hope grant by the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape to support the development of a prevention self-assessment strategy based on the Situational Prevention Approach for the more than 4000 Boys & Girls Clubs nationwide.

HOLLY KEARL

Holly Kearl is a leading expert on gender-based street harassment and founder of the 501(c)3 organization Stop Street Harassment. She authored Stop Street Harassment: Making Public Places Safe and Welcoming for Women (Prager, 2010) and since then has given more than 75 talks and 150 media interviews and her work has been cited by the United Nations, CNN, USA Today, the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Guardian, NPR, and more.

ZABIE KHORAKIWALA

Zabie Khorakiwala is a sexual assault specialist and currently manages the educational and prevention programs on UC Irvine's campus related to sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, and stalking. Zabie earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology and Social Behavior and Education from UC Irvine and did her graduate work in Higher Education Administration at The George Washington University. Zabie is a certified yoga instructor through Core Power Yoga and is also certified in trauma-sensitive yoga instruction through the Trauma Center at JRI. Zabie is the founder of Transcending Sexual Violence through Yoga, an organization with a simple mission: empowering survivors to heal through yoga. She serves on the Board of Directors for Stop Street Harassment, based in Washington DC and she is widely recognized for her hard work and dedication to her field, most recently as a finalist for WIN's Young Women of Achievement Award, as a recipient of UC Irvine's Order of the Laurel Award and the Janet Loxley Award, and for her feature in the Huffington Post on yoga therapy. For more information on her yoga work with survivors, visit The Breathe Network: <http://thebreathenetwork.org/zahabiyah-khorakiwala>.

KHMER THAI LAOS DANCE GROUP

Khmer Thai Laos (KTL) Dance Group was established in 2010 to cherish traditional dance styles of the Cambodian, Thai and Lao communities. These dancers came together with the passion to learn and understand their culture even more. We focus on Cambodian, Thai and Laos dance styles and have been performing all around Long Beach, California.

MICHAEL KIMMEL

Michael Kimmel is among the leading researchers and writers on men and masculinity in the world today. The author or editor of more than twenty volumes, his books include The Guy's Guide to Feminism (2011), Misframing Men (2010), Guyland (2008), The Gender of Desire (2005) and The History of Men (2005). The Politics of Manhood (1996), Men Confront Pornography (1990), and Changing Men: New Directions in Research on Men and Masculinity (1987). He teaches sociology at SUNY Stony Brook. A profeminist activist since 1979 when he was among the founders of Santa Cruz Men Against Rape and National Organization for Men Against Sexism (NOMAS).

CHRISTINE KREGG

Christine Kregg is a JDI Program Director. She works on several domestic projects to ensure inmate safety and to help facilities implement the Prison Rape Elimination Act standards. Since joining JDI in 2007, Christine has provided crisis intervention, support, information, and referrals to thousands of prisoner rape survivors and their loved ones. Her expertise includes providing training for corrections officials and community service providers, launching inmate counseling and peer education programs, conducting policy analysis, and mobilizing sexual assault response teams in prisons and jails. Christine is fluent in Spanish and is a certified rape crisis counselor.

DENICE LABERTEW

Denice Labertew, J.D. is the Director of Advocacy Services for the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault and works with sexual assault programs and universities nationally to build more effective responses to sexual violence. She has worked to develop system wide and legislative policy to address and respond effectively to issues of violence against women, has served as an advisor to non-profits on capacity development, leadership training and public policy and been an advocate for domestic and sexual violence survivors for more than 19 years. During law school, she developed, and lead, the first sexual assault civil legal program in California, housed within a rape crisis center. She has worked to protect the legal rights of survivors in immigration cases, housing cases, educational settings and accessing veteran's benefits. Ms. Labertew has been an advocate, prevention educator and self-defense instructor all informing her work on violence against women initiatives. She has been a speaker and contributor to publications nationally and internationally on issues of violence against women, best practices for serving survivors and policy and systems advocacy. Ms. Labertew has a B.A. in Sociology and Women's Studies and a law degree and has served as adjunct faculty at several Los Angeles based colleges and law schools.

ANGELA LAKEY

1st LT Angela Lankey, Sexual Assault Response Coordinator, Joint Force Headquarters, Vermont National Guard

RACHEL LANGSTON

Rachael Langston is a Staff Attorney in the Disability Rights and Gender Equity and LGBT Rights Programs at the Legal Aid Society – Employment Law Center. Rachael represents workers who face discrimination based on their disability, gender, sex, or status as a survivor of domestic violence of sexual assault. She also provides community education regarding employment protections available to workers, and participates in legislative advocacy to expand these protections. Rachael received her J.D. in 2008 from the University of California, Berkeley.

STEVE LAPORE

Steve brings over 25 years experience in nonprofit management and consulting to 1in6, which he founded in January 2007. He originally worked in the private sector as Director of Human Resources for Six Flags Corporation and Landmark Entertainment Group. In 1988, Steve co-founded My Friend's Place, a resource center for homeless and runaway youth in Hollywood, California and became its full-time Executive Director in 1990. In June 1999, he left My Friend's Place to found the Santa Clarita Valley Youth Project, a community-based outreach program preventing high-risk behavior among students in his own community. Steve is a Durfee Foundation Stanton Fellow (having researched effective strategies to address difficult social issues and create change through program and policy development) and also served on the board of CALCASA (the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault).

LAS CAFETERAS

Las Cafeteras sprouted in 2006 as students who enjoyed free Son Jarocho classes & decided to share the magic of this folk music from Southern Veracruz with the public. Since then their sound has evolved & they've played at community centers, churches, schools, museums, parties, protests, youth conferences, theaters, festivals, weddings, & art exhibits. Las Cafeteras combines the vibrant energy of Son Jarocho music with an edgy LA-alternative sound & political message. Their pounding Afro-Mexican rhythms, stomping zapateado dancing, & uplifting lyrics tell stories of everyday people searching for love & fighting for justice in the concrete jungle. This alt-son group re-mixes traditional sounds, adding Afro-Caribbean marimbol, Native American drum & flute, cajon, hip hop, English & Spanglish to Jarocho instruments like jarana & requinto guitars, donkey jaw-bone, & the tarima (stomp box). <http://www.lascaferas.com>

SALLY LASKEY

Sally J. Laskey joined the National Sexual Violence Resource Center in 2001 and currently serves as the Director of Special Projects. For over 20 years, Ms. Laskey has worked for social change at local, state and national levels. Ms. Laskey received her bachelor's in Sociology from the University of New Hampshire, and is currently pursuing her master's in Community Psychology and Social Change from Pennsylvania State University. She manages several national technical assistance and training projects related to strengthening sexual assault advocacy and prevention, and building effective and sustainable multidisciplinary responses to sexual assault.

JILL LASTER

Jill Laster is the language access specialist at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center.

DAVID S. LEE

David S. Lee, MPH, is the Director of Prevention Services at the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault (CALCASA) where he manages PreventConnect, the nation's leading online community dedicated to advancing the prevention of sexual violence and domestic violence. David is a frequent trainer on prevention strategies, an avid social media user, and a committed activist to ending violence in our communities. David has been involved in the movement to end sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and child sexual abuse since 1982 working with a variety of local sexual assault and domestic violence prevention agencies before joining CALCASA in 2005.

KATE LESSARD

I was born and raised in Brazil. In 1986, I set off to America accompanied by my suitcase, my dreams and my boundless curiosity. Through the years, I have been part of the breakthroughs women are making in this society and I have been inspired by the strength each one of them exhibits every day in the face of adversity. My professional experience consists of working with survivors of sexual assault and domestic violence, substance abuse, mental health, and parental abuse. Also, I possess a broad understanding of and experience with learning disabilities, child development, anxiety, stress, and depression. My long-time commitment to social justice, progressive politics, and women's issues is reflected in my work history. I hold a B.S. in Psychology, and currently I am completing my second year, Master Degree program in Social Work at Boston University. I am currently employed as a Director of Programs at The Center for Hope and Healing, a Rape Crisis Center located at Lowell, Massachusetts.

GUADALUPE LOPEZ

Guadalupe is a citizen of the Leech Lake Anishinabe and works for the Minnesota Indian Women's Sexual Assault Coalition as the Technical Assistance Training Coordinator. Guadalupe has been organizing community members to end sexual violence for over five years and also is an active volunteer sexual assault advocate for Sexual Offence Services of Ramsey County. Guadalupe was also one of five researchers who interviewed 105 Native women used in prostitution and trafficking for their report: Garden of Truth: The Prostitution and Trafficking of Native Women in Minnesota.

VEVA LOPEZ

Genoveva Lopez, has a bachelor's degree in Sociology, is a Certified Counselor/ Advocate for Rape and Battered Victims and a Certified Domestic Violence Counselor. Mrs. Lopez joined East Los Angeles Women's Center in 2008 as a case manager providing service assessments, advocacy and resources for survivors of sexual and domestic violence. Mrs. Lopez is bilingual and bicultural and supports and empowers volunteers at East Los Angeles Women's Center.

ANNIE LYLES

Annie Lyles, Program Manager at Prevention Institute, oversees projects to prevent violence, including community and street violence, violence against women, and sexual assault and exploitation. She manages UNITY (Urban Networks to Increase Thriving Youth), and she develops and hosts Prevention Institute's contributions to the webinar series PreventConnect. Annie is an advisor to STRYVE, the national violence prevention initiative at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and to the California State Department of Public Health's Teen Dating Violence initiative. She coordinated the Ms. Foundation Child Sexual Abuse Prevention Project and trains participants in the Catholic Health Initiatives Rural Violence Prevention Grant Program. Prior to joining Prevention Institute in 2008, Annie was a program specialist in the County of San Diego Office of Violence Prevention, and an adjunct professor at San Diego State University. Annie has more than 15 years of experience coordinating and providing direct services to families and adolescents through local government, community clinics, juvenile detention facilities, and school-based initiatives. She holds a BA in Social Policy from Northwestern University and a MSW from University of Washington with a concentration on social justice models in multi-ethnic practice.

SHARMILI MAJMUDAR

Sharmili Majmudar, MSW, Executive Director, Rape Victim Advocates

KERRY MAKIN-BYRD

Kerry Makin-Byrd is a clinical psychologist and the Manager for Informatics and Dissemination for the VA Mental Health Services Military Sexual Trauma Support Team. Her research and clinical interests focus on resilient parenting and the etiology and consequences of sexual trauma, family violence, and PTSD.

MARTHA MARIN

Martha is a Colombian native raised in L.A. brings us a unique set of skills acquired from many years of for-profit management and a deep dedication to human rights. As a Program Coordinator for the Women's Center of Jacksonville and FL Dept. of Health, she taught thousands of students on topics related to the prevention of sexual assault including cyber bullying, LGBTQ/sexual harassment, and teen dating violence as well as human trafficking. Martha is a public speaker, consultant and professional trainer and served previously as the Chair of the Northeast Florida Human Trafficking Coalition. Her international projects have included a large-scale bi-lingual internship for the USAID Scholarship for Economic Education and Development at FL State College at Jacksonville. Martha first identified the lack of services for male survivors while teaching at a correctional facility, where she developed the life skills and healing curriculum, "YOU ARE WORTHY"!

JODY MARKSAMER

Jody Marksamer, Juvenile Justice Consultant

DAYANARA MARTE

Dayanara Marte is a first generation Latina, Dominican Immigrant from Washington Heights, & mother of two dedicated to social justice & humanity. She is a Master of Public Health graduate of Columbia University with over 15 years' experience working with womyn, girls & the LGBTQ community on reproductive health, mental health & violence prevention. She is nationally known for her work as a trauma prevention specialist, internalized oppression healer, trainer & facilitator in emotional release; organizing healing circles of self-healing from the impact that oppression, trauma, violence & poverty has on the mind, body & spirit. As a certified addiction & recovery counselor, she holistically addresses addictions as the result of internalized oppression & as dis-ease that manifest in our bodies as a result of institutional racism, homophobia, xenophobia, classism, & sexism. She recently founded In Bold Rebirth Consulting, providing personal & organizational health care for the mind, body & spirit. This work includes spiritual development & transformational leadership, executive coaching, identifying capacity building & systems management needs, creating accountability structures & systems, & specifying personal & organizational performance evaluation systems. Dayanara has developed Conscious Accountability: a trauma informed resiliency model that supports young & adult womyn & the LGBTQ community on the front lines of their lives in creating healing spaces, self-care action plans & systems of personal accountability. Dayanara envisions a world where women young & elder powerfully exist in the face of sexual assault, child sexual abuse, incest, rape, relationship/partner abuse, & domestic violence within our homes, our organizations & within movements. Dayanara has been working for 14 years in the South Bronx creating programs that reclaim the cultural/spiritual aspect of change to social justice movements towards the empowerment, healing & transformation of women of color. In 2010, Dayanara became a citizen journalist for World Pulse, Voices of Our Future Correspondent & Global Connect: A Gender Justice writing project with Women E News & the Global Press Institute, founding the Behind the Movement Newsletter.

BECKIE MASAKI

Beckie Masaki, MSW, is the Associate Director of the Asian & Pacific Islander Institute on Domestic Violence, a national resource center on gender violence in Asian American, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander communities. Beckie has worked in the movement to end violence against women for thirty years. She co-founded one of the first VAW programs in the nation that could meet the language and cultural needs of Asian survivors of domestic violence and trafficking, Asian Women's Shelter in San Francisco, and served as the founding executive director for over twenty-one years. Beckie has extensive experience in providing multilingual, multicultural services to domestic violence and trafficking survivors and their children, innovative program development, prevention, community building, policy-making and institutional advocacy. Beckie has provided peer-based training, technical assistance, consultation and facilitation to a wide range of grassroots groups on local, state, national and international levels. She collaborates as faculty for several movement building/ field building initiatives including the National Gender and Equity Campaign of Asian American Pacific Islanders in Philanthropy, Advocacy Learning Center of Praxis International, Supporting Organizational Sustainability project of the Family Violence Prevention Fund, Strong Field Project and Building Cultural Competency Initiative of Blue Shield Against Violence. Beckie is on the advisory committee and in the pilot cohort for Move to End Violence, a ten-year initiative to strengthen our collective capacity to end violence against girls and women in the United States.

CEMA MASTROLEO

Cema Mastroleo has a Master of Education from the University of Texas at Austin. She has 15 years of experience providing personal safety, healthy relationship and sexuality education to youth and adults with various disabilities. Additionally, Cema has 8 years experience coordinating training programs on disability awareness and accessibility for the criminal justice system and providing training to Adult Protective Services. Additionally, Cema has over 30 years experience working with children and adults with disabilities in both the United States and in Brazil.

NICOLE MATTHEWS

Nicole Matthews is a member of the White Earth Band of Ojibwe, and is the Executive Director for the Minnesota Indian Women's Sexual Assault Coalition, a statewide tribal coalition for American Indian Sexual Assault Advocates in Minnesota. The mission of this coalition is to strengthen the voices of American Indian women to create awareness, influence social change, and reclaim the traditional values that honor the sovereignty of American Indian women and children, thereby eliminating the sexual violence perpetrated against them. Their vision is: Creating Safety and Justice for Native Women Through the Teachings of Our Grandmothers. Nicole received her Bachelor of Science degree from St. Cloud State University in Applied Psychology including a minor in Human Relations and Multicultural Education. Nicole was also one of the researchers who interviewed 105 Native women used in prostitution and trafficking for their report: "Garden of Truth: The Prostitution and Trafficking of Native Women in Minnesota."

ANN MCCARTY

Ann McCarty serves as the Associate Director for the North County Rape Crisis and Child Protection Center and has more than 18 years' experience working with victims of sexual violence and interpersonal violence. Mrs. McCarty is experienced in developing programs and leading individuals through the conceptualization process. She is recognized nationally as an expert on military interaction with sexual assault survivors and has been instrumental in solidifying the relationship between Vandenberg Air Force Base (AFB) officials and the Sexual Assault Response Team of Santa Barbara County. She began an early training program with the Office of Special Investigations (OSI) and has provided countless hours of training to agents responsible for investigating sexual assaults of military members. Additionally, Mrs. McCarty has trained numerous Victim Advocates through the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office (SAPRO) at Vandenberg AFB. Her ability to connect with team members and to explain the process of a sexual assault forensic exam by providing an interactive training makes Mrs. McCarty the go-to-person for individuals in the SAPRO office. Equally as important, Mrs. McCarty recognizes the importance of cross-training available to advocates within her organization. The local Sexual Assault Response Coordinator routinely responds to requests for training, further solidifying the relationship between Vandenberg AFB and the rape crisis center. Mrs. McCarty is married to a retired veteran of the United States Air Force. With 24 years as a military spouse as well as her 18-plus years working closely with Vandenberg AFB providing intervention services to military sexual assault victims (MSAV), Mrs. McCarty has a keen understanding of military culture. Mrs. McCarty has a B.S. in Criminal Justice and an M.B.A. She has been a California Coalition Against Sexual Assault Council member and representative for the Central Coast Region since 2003.

LINDA MCFARLANE

Linda McFarlane, MSW, LCSW, is JDI's Deputy Executive Director. She has worked with survivors of sexual violence in a variety of settings throughout the last two decades. Linda is the former Director of Counseling Services for the Sexual Assault Crisis Agency in Long Beach, California. She has served as a counselor and advocate for children and youth in both foster care and detention. In 1995, Linda was instrumental in implementing a ground-breaking treatment program for mentally ill incarcerated teen girls in Detroit, Michigan. She has worked in crisis intervention with a variety of populations including survivors of domestic violence and child abuse, teens and adults living with mental illness, and people living in poverty and with addictions.

TEAMA MCGREGOR

MEGAN MCKENDRY

Megan McKendry, M.P.H., is SAFER's Policy and Research Coordinator. In this role, she oversees SAFER and V-Day's Campus Accountability Project (CAP) database and is writing a forthcoming report about the state of college sexual assault policies in the U.S. Outside of SAFER, Megan designs and delivers sexual and relationship violence prevention programming at the University of Arizona . Megan earned her Master of Public Health from Columbia University in 2012.

FRANK MENDOZA

STEPHANIE MESONES

Stephanie, Development Associate, at East Los Angeles Women's Center, is an experienced anti-oppression trainer and capacity builder on violence prevention, community organizing, domestic and sexual violence. Since joining East LA Women's Center Stephanie has collaborated on the development of a bilingual, culturally competent curriculum for Promotoras with a focus on violence against women issues and preventing sexual assault and domestic violence. Stephanie has a wealth of experience facilitating bilingual sexual assault and domestic violence trainings. Stephanie has experience mobilizing and training Latinas across California, empowering and motivating women and men to take a stance against violence. In addition, she has worked with social service providers in various communities to increase their awareness about violence against women, understanding of how Latinas may: perceive outside assistance, access community resources and respond to violence. Stephanie is passionate about helping organizations understand their stakeholder's needs and providing culturally competent programming and services.

JESSICA MINDLIN

Jessica Mindlin is the National Director of Training and Technical Assistance for the Victim Rights Law Center (VRLC), a non-profit organization dedicated to transforming the nation's legal response to rape and sexual assault. She is also an Adjunct Professor of Law. Before joining the VRLC, Jessica served as Senior Staff Attorney and a clinical instructor for NCVLI and Lewis and Clark Law School, statewide Support Unit Attorney for Legal Aid Services of Oregon, Coordinator of the Oregon Supreme Court-Oregon State Bar Task Force on Gender Fairness, and Legal Access Project Director for the Oregon Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence. Before law school, Jessica worked as a rape victim advocate, a counselor and legal advocate for battered women, a counselor for runaway teens, and a waitress. (She also spent a year as a farmer on an Oregon commune.) Jessica serves on the Editorial Board of the Sexual Assault Report and the Board of Directors for the Oregon Attorney General's Sexual Assault Task Force. She is a founding member of CounterQuo, a national campaign to change the status quo on how we examine and respond to sexual assault.

SANTA MOLINA-MARSHALL

Santa Molina-Marshall has been employed as the Director of Counseling and Advocacy at the DC Rape Crisis Center since 2007. She manages the Center's counseling program; ensures that relevant grant objectives and expenditures are adhered to; provides individual and group counseling; directs program development; and supervises clinical staff and graduate social work students. Prior to her employment with the Center Ms. Molina managed her private psychotherapy practice; served as "Lifeline for Kids" Project Coordinator for the Center for Adoption Support and Education, Inc.; worked as an Adoptions Social Worker for Child and Family Services Agency; served as Clinical Director at Sanctuary for Families, Inc., a domestic violence organization in NYC; and has presented at numerous National and International conferences and trainings on Women and Trauma. Ms. Molina received her BS and her MSW from Hunter College in NYC. She has obtained licensure/certification as a Somatic Experiencing Practitioner, Massage Therapist, Integral Yoga Teacher, Reiki Master and was ordained as an Interfaith Minister at the New Seminary in New York City. Ms. Molina specializes on issues of Addiction, loss and grief, bereavement, adult and childhood sexual abuse. She has been providing services for the last 20 years. She developed a holistic approach to addressing the needs of survivors of trauma that encompass addressing the neurobiological effects of trauma and honors the healing process of the body, mind and spirit. Ms. Molina is a compassionate, dedicated clinician and administrator. She believes that we all have the innate ability to be whole, happy and enlightened.

MARI MORALES-WILLIAMS

Born in East Harlem and raised in the Bronx, Mari is an activist scholar whose work focuses on rape culture, media literacy, and community based education. Her dissertation, "Tough Love: Young Urban Women of Color and Their Lessons on Race, Gender, and Sexuality," won the Myra Sadker Foundation Dissertation Award for its potential to change gender inequity within education. She is the Education Strategist of FAAN, a critical media literacy activist organization based in Philadelphia. She identifies as a Black Puerto Rican queer rape survivor dancer poet warrior, and is committed to the healing and liberation of our communities.

BILLYE JONES MULRAINE

Billye Jones Mulraine, LCSW is the Assistant Executive Director of Clinical Programs at Kingsbridge Heights Community Center. Billye has been at the center for nine years, serving as the Assistant Director of KHCC's Parent and Child (PAC) Program from 2004-2007, Director of the Child Sexual Abuse Treatment and Prevention Program (CSA) from 2007-2010. Previously she served at the Center for Preventive Psychiatry as staff psychotherapist for children and adolescents. Billye has extensive experience working with sexually abused/sexually aggressive youth. Ms. Jones-Mulraine has an MSW degree from New York University. Billye is an active member of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW) where she current holds a local and a National position.

MICHAEL MUNSON

michael munson is the co-founder and Executive Director of FORGE, an organization focused on improving the lives of transgender individuals by building stronger connections, providing resources, and empowering growth through knowledge. His educational background is in psychology, with an emphasis in trauma. Munson's work on violence against transgender and gender non-conforming individuals is groundbreaking, stressing the intersectionality between complex components of identity, experience, and societal constructs that can both spur violence, as well as catalyze healing for individuals and communities. He is passionate about engaging professionals to embrace these complexities and learn key skills to better serve their clients/constituents.

DEREK MURRAY

Derek Murray, MPA, serves as Program Director at JDI. Prior to joining JDI he worked as Administrative Coordinator for a small non-profit organization serving the gay and transgender community in Hollywood and West Hollywood. Derek has extensive volunteer experience, including at the Los Angeles Gay and Lesbian Center, Minority AIDS Project, and Bienestar. He is a UCLA graduate and received his Master's of Public Administration from California State University, Northridge.

REBECCA NAGLE

Rebecca Nagle is the co-founder and co-director of FORCE: Upsetting Rape Culture. FORCE: Upsetting Rape Culture is a creative activist effort to upset the culture of rape and promote a culture of consent. We believe that a more difficult and honest conversation needs to happen in America to face the realities of sexual violence, and we envision a world where sex is empowering and pleasurable rather than coercive and violent. To promote this needed conversation, FORCE creates art actions to generate media attention and get millions of people talking. According to the Huffington Post, "Force is doing a good and creative job with a hard-to-digest topic, capturing the public imagination with their tactics." Their creative tactics have also been praised in the New York Daily News, New York Magazine, Jezebel, The Nation, and Bitch to name a few. In between the media buzz, FORCE is also building a movement on the ground by creating spaces for conversation, facilitating community workshops, and partnering with other national organizations. FORCE is led by feminist duo Hannah Brancato and Rebecca Nagle. Brancato and Nagle are both community organizers, activists, and artists who teach and work throughout Baltimore.

KIMBER J. NICOLETTI

Kimber J. Nicoletti, MSW, Director and Founder of Multicultural Efforts to end Sexual Assault (MESA) at Purdue University, has been an advocate for Latina, Migrant Farm Worker and Multicultural communities for over 20 years. Ms. Nicoletti works at the national, state and local level engaging communities and organizations in the use of culturally relevant models for promoting healing, healthy relationships and preventing sexual violence. Ms. Nicoletti has helped in the development of several fotonovelas and guidebooks on sexual violence prevention in farm worker communities. As a clinician and a prevention practitioner, she has developed a successful model of sexual violence prevention for the migrant farm worker and Latina/o immigrant communities. In 2007, Kimber created Mujeres del Movimiento, a national resource and support group for Latina women who work in violence prevention. Kimber who brings a high level of energy and enthusiasm to her work has a positive attitude and is skilled at using an arts-based approach for engaging communities. Her experiences as a survivor of domestic and sexual violence and a bilingual therapist provide her with insight into barriers and challenges in creating culturally relevant services. Ms. Nicoletti has worked as a consultant with many organizations including Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, OVW, Praxis International, National Sexual Violence Resource Center, Southern Poverty Law Center, California Rural Legal Assistance and the U.S. Department of Army. Ms. Nicoletti formerly served the chair for the Advisory Council of the National Sexual Violence Resource Center and also as the president of the Purdue Latino Faculty and Staff Association for 5 years and currently serves as the President Emeritus. She is also the advisor to several student organizations. Ms. Nicoletti was awarded the 2013 Woman of Distinction award at the YWCA Salute to Women.

KLARISSA OH

Klarissa Oh is a founding member and the Executive Director of OAASIS, Oregon Abuse Advocates and Survivors in Service. Prior to OAASIS, she worked as Director of the Maternal Infant Health Integrator with BH1, as a Family Assessment Worker with Healthy Start, and as a Group Facilitator with Kids' Turn, a program that equips children during divorce and custody changes. Klarissa's work has focused on children's and women's health, child development, poverty alleviation, and social justice. What draws Klarissa to this work is her core belief that each person is sacred and has immeasurable worth. Klarissa received a BA from Wheaton College and a Master's of Theological Studies from Vanderbilt Divinity School.

JULIA PARISH

Julia Parish is an attorney with the Work and Family and SURVIVE (Surviving Violence and Increasing Viable Employment) Projects at the Legal Aid Society – Employment Law Center. Julia provides legal advice, know-your-rights workshops, and direct legal services for workers struggling with family and medical crises, domestic violence, and sexual assault. Julia works on policy initiatives at both the local and state level to improve protections for survivors of violence. She has partnered with service providers around the state to make legal services accessible and client-centered, and been trained as a domestic violence counselor. Julia received her J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley in 2011. Prior to Law School, Julia was a High School Spanish teacher and sports coach.

WENDY L. PATRICK

Wendy L. Patrick is a San Diego County Deputy District Attorney named by her peers as one of the Top Ten criminal attorneys in San Diego by the San Diego Daily Transcript. She has completed over 150 trials ranging from hate crimes, to domestic violence, to first-degree murder. In her current assignment in the Sex Crimes and Stalking Division of the San Diego County District Attorney's Office, Ms. Patrick prosecutes sexually violent predators, human traffickers, stalkers, rapists, and child molesters. She is the Team Leader in charge of the Sexually Violent Predator cases her office handles, and Co-Chair of the statewide California District Attorneys Association Sexually Violent Predator Committee and the Human Trafficking Committee. Ms. Patrick speaks to community groups, law enforcement organizations, and a wide variety of legal and educational institutions about the prevalence and methodology of human traffickers, sexual predators, and stalkers, and how to increase public awareness and take steps to protect the community. Ms. Patrick is an Institute of Criminal Investigation certified instructor for law enforcement and has lectured nationally and internationally on the topics of sexual abuse, domestic violence, and child molestation. She received the SART Response With a Heart Award based on her significant contribution to the professional field of sexual assault prosecution in 2011.

EZAK PEREZ

Ezak Perez is an LA-born-and-raised queer, trans, Latino, Two-Spirit, Hopi/First Nations community organizer and activist. Ezak currently works as the Campaign Director with Gender Justice LA, an organization that works to elevate the collective voice and power of the transgender & gender non-conforming community in Los Angeles, through grassroots organizing and leadership development. They are a proud Brown Boi Project member, Big Boy Vintage model, an advisory board member for the first annual Queer Latin@ Film Festival, LDiR (Leadership Development in Interethnic Relations) Facilitator for Health & Wellness as well as an alumnus & Facilitator of Facilitation for Social Change, and a former Americorps Fellow and Mark Taper Fellow with Public Allies. Ezak is a performer with the Local Autonomy Networks (Autonets), which is a project focused on creating networks of communication to increase community autonomy and reduce violence against women, LGBTQI people, people of color and other groups who continue to survive violence on a daily basis. Ezak also works as a sex educator with Cucci, a sex educators collective in LA that works towards sexual health justice and is very passionate about fighting for social change around multiple issues that intersect with the lack of health access and alternative responses to violence in low-income, LGBTQI and people of color communities.

Liliana T. Pérez is a longtime community activist in the Immigrant, Latino and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender community for over 17 years. As the community organizer for the National Association of Latino Elected and Appointed Officials (NALEO) Educational Fund, she coordinated workshops for thousands of applicants seeking the American dream to become a U.S. citizen. In 1995, Liliana served as an assistant to Assembly Speaker Emeritus, Antonio R. Villaraigosa for five years. Following her service with Villaraigosa, Liliana became a Community Investment Officer for the United Way of Greater Los Angeles. In 2001, Liliana became Director of Volunteer Outreach and Special Projects for Villaraigosa for Mayor in Los Angeles. Liliana coordinated a volunteer base of 1,200 for five field offices. Shortly thereafter, she was appointed as the Special Assistant & Spanish Language Media Liaison for Governor Gray Davis and proudly served in his Administration until his retirement from office. She then humbly accepted the role as the District Director for the Speaker of the Assembly Fabián Núñez for the 46th Assembly District. During that same period, she was privileged to have volunteered for the historic and successful 2005 election of Antonio R. Villaraigosa as Mayor of the City of Los Angeles. In 2007, Mayor Villaraigosa appointed Ms. Pérez to serve as a Commissioner for the Commission on the Status of Women for the City of Los Angeles. She also serves as a Board member for Bienestar (one of the largest non-profit social service organizations in Southern California, dedicated to positively impacting the health and well-being of the Latino community and other underserved communities) and the Los Angeles Theater Academy (a performing arts after-school program for children of all ages). Ms. Pérez has proudly served in four Speakership administrations: Antonio R. Villaraigosa, Fabián Núñez, Karen Bass and now longtime labor and Democratic party leader, John A. Pérez, where she serves as the Special Assistant to the Speaker working on policy issues and special projects that aim to improve job creation, livable wages, affordable and accessible health care.

BECKY PERKINS

As the Statewide Outreach Manager for the Ohio Alliance to End Sexual Violence (OAESV), Becky's role is to assist survivors and victim service agencies throughout Ohio through training, technical assistance, dissemination of best practices and policy development. Prior to coming to OAESV, Becky worked briefly for a consulting business providing grant-writing and project support for a variety of nonprofit organizations. Becky worked for seven years for the Butler County Rape Crisis Program in Oxford, Ohio, providing program and grant management, volunteer supervision and program development. Under her leadership, the program received the Promising Practice Award from the Ohio Attorney General for groundbreaking work with Butler County's Latino population, and Becky received a partnership award from the Miami University Police Department for consulting on improvements to the departmental response to student survivors. Becky has provided over 600 contacts to survivors of sexual assault, and she has trained and supervised over 200 volunteers. She possesses Bachelor's degrees in Psychology and Health Promotion, and possesses Certification in the Management of Volunteer Programs. As a survivor of rape, Becky is passionate about eliminating sexual violence and ensuring that all survivors have the resources they need for recovery.

BRAD PERRY

Brad worked at the Virginia Sexual & Domestic Violence Action Alliance (VSDVAA) from 2000–2011 after starting JMU's first all-male sexual assault prevention group in 1999. In his role as statewide Sexual Violence Prevention Coordinator for VSDVAA, he provided training and technical assistance to primary prevention initiatives throughout Virginia and edited the Moving Upstream newsletter. He currently sits on the national board of Hollaback!, and has authored articles published in Yes Means Yes, The Prevention Researcher, and Violence Against Women. Brad is currently a sexual violence prevention consultant, and works fulltime for branding agency, Create Digital. He plays drums in a punk band on No Idea Records, and loves cooking with his wife (Tara) and burping his son (Oliver) in beautiful Richmond, VA.

Peter Pollard, the Communication and Professional Outreach director for 1in6, has worked for more than 20 years as a social worker, sexual abuse and domestic violence prevention specialist and survivor advocate. He was previously Public Education director and Helpline Supervisor at Stop It Now! and worked for 15 years as a state child protection case manager. He also works as a group leader for a Certified Batterers Intervention Program. Since 2003, he has served as the director of the Western Massachusetts Chapter of SNAP (Survivors Network of those Abused by Priests). His comments about child abuse and community responsibility for prevention have been published in the Boston Globe, on National Public Radio, CNN, and WBUR Boston.

ROB POWELL

Rob Powell is the Member Services Coordinator with the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault. For the past three years, Rob has worked to provide training and support to rape crisis centers throughout North Carolina. Prior to joining the NCCASA team, Rob worked as the Rape Prevention Education Coordinator with the Family Violence and Rape Crisis Services in Chatham County. Rob has a degree from Berry College in Communication and Women's Studies.

JEN PRZEWOZNIK

Jen Przewoznik, MSW, is a trainer, technical assistance provider, practitioner and program evaluator with over 15 years of experience working with/in women's and LGBTQI communities. She is founder of the Queer Research Consulting Collaborative, a project designed to provide consultation to researchers who are studying LGBTQI experiences and identities. Jen is currently the Director of Prevention and Evaluation at the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault (NCCASA) where she provides training and technical assistance to organizations and college campuses working on sexual violence prevention efforts. She also co-chairs the NC State Sexual Violence Prevention Team and the NC Campus Consortium. While Jen is a proud born and raised New Jersey-ite, she currently lives in Durham, NC with her partner and many rescued animals.

PROJECT SISTER FAMILY SERVICES

Project Sister Family Services (PSFS) is the only California state-designated provider of sexual assault crisis and prevention services in a 27-city region located eastern Los Angeles and western San Bernardino Counties. The mission of PSFS is to reduce the trauma and risk of sexual assault and child abuse.

www.projectsister.org

ANDREA QUIJADA

With more than a decade of experience as a media literacy trainer, and 20 years as a community organizer, Andrea has a deep passion for media justice. She presents nationally and internationally on the impact of media on culture, politics, and technology, serves on the Leadership Team of the national Media Action Grassroots Network, and is a 2010 alum of Women's Media Center Progressive Women's Voices. She is an advisory board member of Generation Justice, serves as an advisor to Enlace Comunitario, and is a volunteer with IMPACT Personal Safety New Mexico. She has co-founded various organizations in Albuquerque, including Young Women United, a reproductive justice organization by and for young women of color. She is particularly interested in media as a tool for self-determination and movement building. Andrea has strong cultural and community ties to the Southwest. Originally from Phoenix, Arizona, she has happily made New Mexico her home for the past 17 years. Andrea earned her M.A. in Art History from the University of New Mexico with a focus on Chicana feminist art and art of social movements.

NANCY RADCLIFFE

Ms. Radcliffe is the Director of Sexual Assault Services for HelpLine and has been an advocate and educator in the field of Violence Against Women for approximately twenty four years. She has taught girls 'and women's self-defense for approximately twenty years and is a certified self-defense instructor through the National Women's Martial Arts Federation. Ms. Radcliffe began working as a volunteer for the local rape crisis center, began studying/teaching self-defense, while getting her undergraduate degree in Sociology with an emphasis in Gender Studies. Prior to coming to HelpLine, Ms. Radcliffe was the Campus Advocacy Program Coordinator for The Ohio State University. In that position, Ms. Radcliffe provided advocacy for students, staff and faculty who had experienced intimate partner abuse, stalking, sexual harassment and sexual assault. Also, while at Ohio State, she taught women's self-defense and taught a similar course at Denison University, as well. Prior to that position, Ms. Radcliffe worked in a similar capacity for the Sexual Assault Response Network of Central Ohio (SARNCO), central Ohio's rape crisis center. Much of her work in the anti-violence field has included: providing direct service to victims/survivors, providing prevention programming, training for professionals, and collaborating with agencies on various projects.

SANGEETHA RAVICHANDRAN

Girl/Friends After school Coordinator, A Long Walk Home, Inc.

ERICA RICH

Erica Rich is the Training Specialist for the Sexual Assault across the Lifespan National Technical Assistance project (Lifespan project) at the National Sexual Violence Resource Center. In this position she helps in the efforts of the agency to provide support for law enforcement, prosecutors, health personnel and advocates in how best to stay trauma focused in their service delivery. Prior to working for the NSVRC, Erica was the Youth Program Coordinator for Planned Parenthood of Central PA, where she directed two youth groups—a Peer Education program and an LGBT youth group and provided evidence-based sexuality education throughout the community. She is involved in several leadership and community service organizations and is passionate about fighting for social justice. Erica earned a Bachelor of Science degree from Western Michigan University, with a major in Psychology and a minor in Women's Studies.

CARMEN RIOS

Carmen Rios is a writer and activist currently based out of Washington, DC. She's been working professionally and under the table in feminism since 2008, and plans to do so for the rest of her life. Very much so 22, Carmen graduated from American University in 2012 with a degree in Women's Studies and Communication, and contributes regularly to Autostraddle, PolicyMic, and the SPARK Movement blog about queer liberation, gender equality, and racial and socioeconomic justice. She also edits the blog for THE LINE Campaign, wrangling bloggers of all ages and backgrounds to create a world without rape. In the past, she's worked on social media and web-based organizing, community-building, and fundraising for Hollaback!, the Feminist Majority Foundation, the Domestic Violence Resource Project, the Institute for Women's Policy Research, and the AU Women & Politics Institute. Most of Carmen's work focuses specifically on issues of rape, consent, and sex-positivity, combining a theoretical framework with the real world to achieve tangible change. She launched a successful peer-to-peer educational campaign at American University and later ran their women's organization, Women's Initiative, where she successfully raised over $20,000 for various causes and organized an array of events around women's needs. She also implemented policy changes meant to directly combat sexual assault rates and occurrences on her campus. Carmen is absolutely crazy about her dog, Eli, and hates paying more than one dollar for a good slice of pizza. You can follow her on Twitter (@C-rios) and Tumblr.

BAMBY SALCEDO

Bamby Salcedo is a Mexican native trans woman. She is the HIV Prevention Services Project Coordinator with Children's Hospital Los Angeles. Bamby is the founder and President of the Trans-Latin@ Coalition, a national advocacy organization to address the needs of trans Latina immigrant women residing in the United States. She has served in various planning groups and organizations, such as the CHPG (California HIV Planning Group) in which she chaired the transgender working group. Bamby is also the former Co-Chair for the Transgender Task Force with the Prevention Planning Committee of Los Angeles County, a member of the National Latino AIDS Action Network (NLAAN), and a board member for the National Latino LGBT Civil Rights Organization Unid@s. Bamby is currently working with the Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO) developing a blueprint on how to provide competent health care services for trans people in Latin America and the Caribbean. One of Bamby's accomplishments is producing the very first trans youth calendar, Angels of Change, through which she has created a positive media outlet for images of trans youth. Bamby has also spoken at various national conferences including the United Conference on AIDS, where she was asked to be an opening plenary speaker in 2009 and in 2012. She has been recognized nationwide for her advocacy work related to trans issues. In 2006 she was given the Sol Award at the National Latino AIDS Awareness Day of Los Angeles; in 2009 she was honored with the Icon Award from TransUnity Pride Los Angeles; in 2010 she was recognized by Christopher Street West, Producers of LA Pride, with the Connie Norman Leadership Award for her leadership in trans communities; in 2011 she was awarded the Sheila J. Kuehl Trailblazer Award from the Stone Wall Democratic Club; and in 2012 she was awarded the City of West Hollywood Women in Leadership Award and the Good Neighbor Award by State Farm Insurance and the L.A. Gay and Lesbian Center.

SHARON SHELTON

Senior Director, Empowerment Services, YWCA of Greater Los Angeles

VICKEI T. SIDES

Vickie R. Sides is originally from Benton Harbor, Michigan but has lived in Chicago since she was 18 months old. She is the past Associate Director of the Center for Racial Justice and Activism at YWCA Metropolitan Chicago, where she also served as the founding Coordinator of the Chicago Rape Crisis Hotline during her 12-year tenure with the agency. Vickie currently serves as Director of Resources for Sexual Violence Prevention, a campus anti-violence program at the University of Chicago. She is an Adjunct instructor at City Colleges Chicago and National-Louis University in Chicago. Vickie has spent several years working in the movement to end violence against women. She is dedicated to using education to advance an understanding of the connections between inequality and violence as central to that work. As an educator, she is committed to educating for social justice and is active in local and national movements for justice and equity in both her personal and professional work. Vickie earned an undergraduate degree from Chicago State University and an M.A. from DePaul University. She lives in the Chicago area with her Partner and her college-aged Nephew, whom they have raised together for the past fifteen years.

TERRA SLAVIN

Lead Staff Attorney, L.A. Gay & Lesbian Center

TYANNA SLOBE

Tyanna is a graduate student in Linguistics at The University of Colorado at Boulder. She is especially interested in trans* issues, linguistics, immigration, law, media studies, education, and when girls tell the world who they are instead of the world telling us who we are. Tweet at her at <https://twitter.com/#!/TySlobe>.

HEIDI (BOA) SMITH

Just Detention International

LEONA SMITH DI FAUSTINO

Leona Smith Di Faustino, L.C.S.W. is the Training and Technical Assistance Coordinator at the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault. Leona has always had a passion for social justice work. This passion has translated into a decades worth of work in the field of sexual violence and relationship violence intervention and prevention. Leona firmly believes that ending interpersonal violence for the individual, the community and society is both a daunting task but one that is possible if not in her life time but in the future for the next generations. Leona is the host of PreventConnect's Ending Child Sexual Abuse web conference series.

RACHEL SOLOV

District Attorney, San Diego District Attorney's Office; President, Association of Threat Assessment Professionals

ESMERELDA SOTOLOVISA STANNOW

Just Detention International

LARRINITA STARKS

Girl/Friends Alumna, A Long Walk Home

BETTE STEBBINS INCH

Bette Stebbins Inch is the Senior Victim Assistance Advisor for the Department of Defense, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office. She is a subject matter expert on crime victim care in the military jurisdiction and has 17 years experience serving military crime victims. Ms. Inch holds a Masters of Science Degree, in Counseling Psychology from Chaminade University, Hawaii, and a Bachelors of Art Degree, Cum Laude, in Psychology from Hawaii Pacific University. She also holds a paralegal certification from Brigham Young University. Ms. Inch is a trained Department of the Army Inspector General, and a Credentialed Advanced Advocate with the designation of Comprehensive Victim Intervention Specialist from the National Advocate Credentialing Program. Prior to joining the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Office in 2007, Ms. Inch served as the senior victim specialist on two Congressionally mandated Defense Task Forces: Sexual Assault in the Military Services and Sexual Harassment & Violence at the Military Service Academies. She also served as the victim-witness assistance program manager and paralegal for nearly ten years with the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, 25th Infantry Division, Hawaii. Ms. Inch is an expert in crime victims' rights and she is a national speaker on victim care in the military and an adjunct professor. She led the Department of Defense in several ground-breaking initiatives, to include, the development of the DoD Safe Helpline, the nation's first confidential hotline resource for military victims of sexual assault, and the award-winning Safe Helpline mobile app, the nation's first sexual assault response app, and the Safe HelpRoom, a secure moderated online peer support forum; the Department's first sexual assault advocate certification program for individuals providing direct assistance to military victims of sexual assault; and Department-wide standards for all victim assistance-related services. Ms. Inch has received numerous awards over the years to include Federal Employee of the Year for the U.S. Army, Pacific Region, Letter of Commendation from the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, and Award for Excellence from the Secretary of Defense. She currently serves as an advisor to several national organizations assisting military victims of crime, such as the National Victim Assistance Standards Consortium, and as a council member on the congressionally-mandated U.S. Peace Corps Sexual Assault Advisory Council.

NAN STEIN

For over 30 years, Nan Stein has conducted research on sexual harassment in K-12 schools and teen dating violence. A former middle school teacher, drug and alcohol counselor, and gender equity specialist with the Massachusetts Department of Education(1978-1992), she has collaborated with teachers' unions and sexual assault/ domestic violence agencies throughout the US. She has authored many book chapters, law review and academic journals as well as commentaries for the mainstream media and the educational press, and often serves as an expert witness in Title IX/sex discrimination-sexual harassment lawsuits in K-12 schools. Since 1992 when she joined the Center for Research on Women at Wellesley College, the largest and oldest women's research center in the US, as a senior research scientist, her research portfolio has been funded by the US Department of Education, National Institute of Justice, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Open Society Institute of the Soros Foundation, and other private family foundations. In 2007, she received the Outstanding Contribution to Education award from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education where she received her doctorate of education in 1981.

LAURA STEMPLE

Director of Graduate Studies, UCLA School of Law

GAIL STERN

Dr. Gail Stern has over 20 years of experience in violence prevention education and advocacy. She is the co-owner and Chief Academic Officer of Catharsis Productions, and is the co-author and co-producer of SEX SIGNALS, which is presented hundreds of times at universities and military installations each year. Dr. Stern served as a subject matter expert (SME) and trainer for the U.S. Air Force-wide Bystander Intervention initiative; co-developed a 20-hour peer education program on sexual violence prevention for the USNA; and serves as an instructional leader in Catharsis Productions prevention initiative at Naval Station Great Lakes. Dr. Stern serves as a SME to the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Army, the U.S. Navy, the U.S Marine Corps, U.S. National Guard, and is a highly sought-after speaker at national and regional sexual and domestic violence prevention conferences. Dr. Stern is the co-creator of the Force of Awesome Institute, a training program for violence prevention educators that incorporates her research on using humor to reduce emotional and cognitive resistance to challenging issues. Dr. Stern served as the director of the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) Campus Advocacy Network from 1991-1998, providing crisis counseling and court advocacy to victims of violence.

JULIA STRANGE

For over ten years, Julia Strange has worked to end gender-based violence, including intimate partner violence and sexual assault through direct victim advocacy, outreach, education, and public policy advocacy at the local and federal level. She is currently the Director of Programs and Policy for Collective Action for Safe Spaces (CASS), a volunteer-led and -run organization that aims to empower the Washington DC metropolitan area to build communities free from public sexual harassment and assault. She also addresses sexual assault in the military as a Program Analyst for the Navy's Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) program. Prior to coming to DC, Julia served as a Peace Corps volunteer in Uzbekistan.

TRISTAN SVARE

Tristan Svare is a Deputy District Attorney from the Elder & Dependent Adult Abuse Prosecution section of the Family Violence Unit in the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office in California. Tristan joined the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office in 1996. He began working in the High Desert area, prosecuting all manner of misdemeanor and felony cases before specializing in domestic violence, sexual assault and child abuse cases. For the past ten years or more he has prosecuted cases of elder and dependent adult abuse - including assault, theft, abuse, neglect, sexual assault, embezzlement, and murder. In October 2005, Tristan became a Lead Deputy District Attorney for the Office's Family Violence Unit, where he coordinated the efforts of a team of child abuse, sexual assault, domestic violence and elder abuse prosecutors. He continues as a senior Deputy District Attorney, addressing prosecution of elder abuse and abuse of persons with disabilities, while also addressing policy and training issues in this area.

In June of 2013, Tristan Svare was promoted to Supervising Deputy District Attorney, where he now oversees the Office's Special Units. Tristan is an expert in elder abuse prosecutions, presenting trainings to state and local prosecutors, police and sheriff's departments, medical, financial, and social services providers and agencies across California, and across the nation.

AMITA SWADHIN

Amita Swadhin is the Los Angeles Executive Director of Peer Health Exchange, a national nonprofit that gives teens the knowledge and skills to make healthy decisions by training college student volunteers to teach a comprehensive health curriculum in low-income public high schools lacking health education. Prior to joining Peer Health Exchange in May 2012, Amita served as the Coordinator and a cast member of Secret Survivors, a theater project she conceived of in 2009 for the NYC-based off-off Broadway Ping Chong & Co. featuring survivors of child sexual abuse telling their stories. She previously held positions in New York City nonprofits and public institutions, including Kingsborough Community College (CUNY), Make the Road NY, Global Kids and Legal Momentum, served as the Board Chair of the National Youth Advocacy Coalition, and served as a consultant to a number of foundations, nonprofits and schools. Amita is the co-host of Flip the Script, a weekly radio show on KPFK-LA, a member of the Peace Over Violence Child Sexual Abuse Prevention Advisory Council, a member of the Liberty Hill Foundation's OUT Fund, a founding member of South Asians for Justice, and enjoys writing poetry and essays in her spare time. She holds a B.S. in Foreign Service from Georgetown University and an M.P.A. from the NYU Wagner

ZOSIA SZTYKOWSKI

Zosia Szykowski has been organizing her community in Washington, DC to build safe public and private spaces for women and LGBTQ individuals for over two years. She serves as the Director of Community Outreach for Collective Action for Safe Spaces, an organization that fights public sexual harassment and assault, and as a Program Assistant for the National Judicial Education Program of Legal Momentum. She studied political science and international relations at Tufts University, where she focused her studies on human rights and social justice.

JOAN TABACHNICK

Joan Tabachnick is nationally recognized for her expertise in sexual violence prevention and social marketing. Over the past 20 years, she has developed award winning educational materials and innovative programs for a wide variety of national, state and local organizations and asked to participate on national expert panels for a variety of organizations including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Unitarian Universalist Association. Her most recent work includes a National Sexual Violence Resource publication titled “Engaging Bystanders in Sexual Violence Prevention” and a publication through the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers called “A Reasoned Approach: The Reshaping of Sex Offender Policy to Prevent Child Sexual Abuse”. Together with Cordelia Anderson, Joan is a lead presenter for the PreventConnect/Ms. Foundation for Women Ending Child Sexual Abuse web conference series.

FARAH TANIS

Executive Director, Black Women's Blueprint

LAURAN TAYLOR

Lauren Taylor is lead instructor of Defend Yourself, which teaches skills for stopping harassment, abuse, and assault. She started working on gender-based violence in 1978 (with the founding of DC's first shelter for battered women and their children and with DC's first take back the night march), and she hasn't stopped since. Since 1987 she has taught thousands of women, teens, and children in the DC area from all walks of life. Lauren specializes in classes for women, for people with disabilities, for LGBTQ people, and for survivors of abuse and assault. This year she joined with Collective Action for Safe Space to develop Safe Bars.

SCHEHERAZADE TILLET

Scheherazade Tillet, MAAT, is the co-founder and executive director of A Long Walk Home, Inc. (ALWH). Since 1998, she has been committed to creating a national platform that speaks out against sexual violence against women and girls. Upon graduating from Tufts University with her B.A. in Child Psychology and a minor in Fine Arts from the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston in 2000, Scheherazade began Story of a Rape Survivor (SOARS), the first of its kind and award winning multi-media performance which intimately examines her sister's healing from sexual assault. In 2003, SOARS became the flagship program for A Long Walk Home, Inc., and Scheherazade has toured SOARS at over 150 colleges and universities. Moreover, Scheherazade's SOARS photographs are featured in two award-winning human rights documentaries, “NO! The Rape Documentary” and “Rape Is...” After establishing her reputation as a young feminist leader through SOARS, Scheherazade earned her Masters in Art Therapy from the prestigious School of the Art Institute of Chicago (SAIC) in 2003. When Scheherazade graduated from SAIC, she began working as an art therapist at Chicago's leading organization to end sexual violence, the YWCA of Metropolitan Chicago. Scheherazade was the only rape crisis counselor in the Westside of Chicago, serving neighborhoods that have the third highest sexual assaults and homicide rates in Illinois.

SARAH TOFTE

Sarah Tofte is an expert on criminal justice responses to violence against women and girls, including the rape kit backlog in the United States. Before she began work at the Joyful Heart Foundation, she was a senior researcher for Human Rights Watch, where she published reports on the rape kit backlogs in Los Angeles and Illinois.

PATRICIA TORRES

Patricia Torres is a Xican@ urban planner-poet, forging places of presence and vision with intergenerational cis-gendered women, gender-variant peoples, and cis-gendered girls of color. She is currently developing an experiential place-based educational program, called Love in the Time of Xican@ Feminisms, exploring eros, mental health and physical abilities, mindfulness and poetry in everyday survival. She is also a PhD urban planning student at UCLA, and since 2004 has worked as founding staff, Director of Programs and National Trainer for Girls For A Change, an organization that uses experiential consciousness raising as a tool of antiviolence and social change. She has also been a core organizer with INCITE! Women of Color and Gender Non-People of Color Against Violence LA and Tod@s Somos Arizona, two Los Angeles based collectives working to fulfill safety and rights for urban residents. She received her master's degree in International Urban Planning at the London School of Economics, where she attended as a Rotary International Ambassadorial Scholar. In 2002, Patricia graduated with high honors from UC Berkeley with a major in Gender and Comparative Urban Studies, where she focused on intimacy, dialogue and gender relations as key sites of intervention into state sanctioned spatial and social control. For more information, please visit: <http://patriciatorresmuse.weebly.com/>

STEPHANIE TOWNSEND

Stephanie Townsend, PhD, has worked for more than 20 years in the movement to end sexual violence as both a practitioner and researcher. She began by working for rape crisis and prevention programs in Michigan, California and Texas. During that time she also served on the boards of state and national coalitions. She completed her doctoral work in community psychology at the University of Illinois at Chicago. Her research focuses on community-based rape prevention programs and Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner programs. As a consultant, she works collaboratively with sexual assault programs to conduct global, national, state, and local research and evaluation projects.

KRISTIN TUCKER

Kristin Tucker is the Senior Program Manager & Coordinator of the National Training and Technical Assistance Program at the Northwest Network of Bisexual, Trans, Lesbian and Gay Survivors of Abuse, where she has worked supporting LGBTQ survivors of abuse since 2002. Founded in 1987 by lesbian survivors of domestic violence, the Northwest Network is considered a national leader in the field of violence and abuse in the LGBTQ communities. The Northwest Network provides direct services to adult & youth survivors of violence, community engagement and education, and training and technical assistance on a local, regional and national level. Kristin brings over 15 years of experience as a community organizer, advocate and educator in areas as diverse as domestic & sexual violence, LGBTQ issues, chemical dependency and racial and economic justice to her current role at the Northwest Network, where she provides support, training and technical assistance to mainstream domestic & sexual violence service providers across the US.

ANNA ULRICH

Anna Ulrich, Esq. Enhancement Coordinator for New York County Intimate Partner Sexual Assault Court The Center for Court Innovation Experience in the Movement Against Sexual Assault My professional experience in the movement against sexual assault is informed by my personal experience as a childhood victim of sexual abuse. It was this experience, as well as the support I received in the aftermath of the abuse, that inspired my decision to attend law school and to work with survivors of violence. My professional experience in the movement against sexual assault begins in 2012 with my work as the project coordinator, resource coordinator, and attorney for the Intimate Partner Sexual Assault (“IPSA”) Court in New York County, New York. The goal of this specialized IPSA court is to provide enhanced services for victims of intimate partner sexual assault, to improve victim safety, and to increase offender accountability. In my capacity as project coordinator, I was responsible for implementing IPSA Court protocols, case identification and transfer procedures, and a referral process for victims and families seeking additional services. In my ongoing role as IPSA Court resource coordinator, I am responsible for the court’s relationships with victim service organizations and court-mandated offender programs and for organizing regular stakeholder trainings on the topic of sexual assault. As the IPSA Court attorney, I conduct research and draft opinions for the IPSA Court Judge in these complex and difficult cases.

JYOTI VENKETRAMAN

Jyoti Venketraman is the Director of Prevention and Evaluation at the New Jersey Coalition Against Sexual Assault where she oversees the Prevention initiatives for NJCASA and its collaborative partners and provides technical assistance to its program members on prevention and evaluation. Jyoti has 7 plus years’ experience in women’s health issues, especially in the area of reproductive health and health policy analysis for women of color and is committed to a social justice frame for ending violence. She holds a Masters in Public Administration from NYU Robert Wagner School of Public Service in Health Policy and Management, and a BS in microbiology from the University of Pune, India. She has experience in prevention, research, data collection and analysis, managing data systems, qualitative and quantitative outcomes, and environmental scans.

SARAH VIDRINE

Chief Program Office, Prevent Child Abuse North Carolina

HECTOR VILLAGRA

Executive Director, ACLU Los Angeles

LORIS VOLLANDT

Lori Vollandt has been a champion of Health Education and Violence Prevention education for the past 20 years. She has co-authored a national policy on the Prevention of Teen Dating Violence in Partnership with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and has been called to do a congressional briefing on this important subject. Dr. Vollandt has worked with LAUSD leadership to adopt a district wide policy on the prevention, intervention and response to Teen Dating Violence. Dr. Vollandt holds a Doctorate in Education from University of California at Los Angeles and is also an adjunct professor at University of Southern California in the Rossier School of Education.

KARLA VIERTHALER

Karla Vierthaler is the Outreach Coordinator for the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape (PCAR). She is currently working on projects addressing sexual violence in populations historically underserved by the anti-sexual violence movement, with a focus on people with disabilities. She has worked in the anti-sexual violence movement for fifteen years.

MIKE L. WALTERS

Mikel L. Walters, PhD is a Behavioral Scientist in the Division of Violence Prevention at the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Dr. Walters currently leads the National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey (NISVS) and is the lead author of the recently released NISVS report exploring the lifetime prevalence of intimate partner violence, sexual violence and stalking by sexual orientation. Her research interests include intimate partner violence, sexual violence, teen dating violence, bullying and many other forms of violence that impact sexual minorities and their communities.

CARRIE WARD

Carrie Ward, M.A. is the Grants Director on ICASA's Administrative Office staff. Since 1996, Carrie has conducted programmatic site visits at ICASA centers and provided technical assistance to centers on a wide range of program areas. Carrie works with ICASA's Contracts Review and Program Committees to assist new and current centers to navigate the membership and funding processes. Prior to joining the ICASA staff, Carrie was employed as an Adult Therapist at the Prairie Center Against Sexual Assault (formerly Rape Information and Counseling Service) in Springfield.

REBECCA WARD

Dr. Rebecca Ward, Director, Rape Victims Support Center at the Department of Health since 2001, RPE director, member of the Dual Coalition Against Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault, member of the NSVRC Advisory Council, and member of RAINN. Dr. Ward is also an advisor of the Secretary of the Department of Health on gender violence and child maltreatment.

SHARON WASCO

Co-presenter Sharon Wasco, PhD, is a community psychologist with 20 years of experience related to sexual assault and violence prevention. She specializes in applied research and program evaluation consultation including staff training, community/capacity assessment, logic modeling, evaluation design and implementation, data analysis, and evaluation use. Dr. Wasco's evaluation practice is grounded in her years of community work: providing crisis counseling and advocacy to rape survivors and their families, working with state coalitions and rape crisis centers to develop training programs and implement evaluation projects, and founding a multi-disciplinary community coalition to coordinate sexual assault services and prevention efforts.

EVETTE WASHINGTON

Parent Leader, A Long Walk Home

FAYE WASHINGTON

Faye Washington, Chief Executive Officer, YWCA of Greater Los Angeles
As Chief Executive Officer of the YWCA Greater Los Angeles, Faye Washington is a rainmaker in the world of non-profit. Her 32-year government track record of management, personnel administration, legislative and budget policy development, and strategic planning created the landscape for her groundbreaking tenure of leading the YWCA Greater Los Angeles in its mission of eliminating racism and empowering women. Because of the urgency of the YWCA Greater Los Angeles' mission, Washington strategically pursues funding opportunities that result in multi-generational impact and long-term residual value for the community at large. She walks with giants and demands the impossible for the sake of those who have no voice or power. Through meticulous hard work, creative vision, audacity, and persistence, Washington has become known as a "game changer."

ROBIN J. WILSON

Robin J. Wilson is a researcher, educator, and board certified clinical psychologist who has worked with sexual and other offenders in a variety of settings for nearly 30 years. He has published and presented widely on the diagnosis and treatment of social and sexual psychopathology, and is the editor of The Forum of the Association for the Treatment of Sexual Abusers.

ISA WOLDEGUIORGUIS

Isa Woldeguiorguis is the Executive Director of The Center for Hope and Healing Inc(CHH), formerly known as Rape Crisis services of Greater Lowell. CHH has been serving victims of rape and sexual assault, educating and raising awareness in the greater Lowell Massachusetts area for over thirty years. Prior to this, Ms. Woldeguiorguis held several statewide and national roles in the movement to end sexual and domestic violence. From 2007-2010. she worked at the Massachusetts Coalition Against Sexual Assault and Domestic Violence (Jane Doe Inc.) as the Policy Director and then Membership Director. Prior to this, Ms Woldeguiorguis worked at the Department of Social Services (DSS) now the Department of Children and Families (DCF) in Massachusetts. She began as an advocate and ultimately became the Director of the Massachusetts DSS Domestic Violence Unit- the first such unit in the country and a national model for integrating domestic violence advocates in the public child welfare system. Her final tenure was serving as the Assistant Commissioner for Practice and Policy, during which time she played a role in redesigning the agency's practice model to become family-centered and in building an integrated practice in substance abuse, mental health and domestic violence. Ms Woldegiorgis is a well-respected leader and national trainer in the field of children, domestic violence, policy and practice. Ms Woldegiorgis is well known for her dynamic training style and teaching skills on these topics and for her activism in the areas of racial disparities. She has authored several articles on topics such as family-centered practice in child welfare, racial and ethnic disproportionality and immigration.

TRACY D. WRIGHT

Tracy D. Wright is the Technical Assistance Provider and Women of Color Leadership Project Coordinator with the North Carolina Coalition Against Sexual Assault (NCCASA) for the National Resource Sharing Project. Her current work provides technical assistance and training to 16 state and territorial sexual assault coalitions. In this capacity, Tracy works with national entities to create a coordinated response to ending sexual violence, addresses emerging issues and carves out initiatives specifically for women of color in the anti-sexual violence movement. Ms. Wright holds a BA in Mass Communications from Shaw University and a Masters of Science in Print Journalism from Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University. She was also a graduate of the North Carolina Center for Women in Public Service Summer Institute and most recently the America's Leaders of Change Development Initiative, a competitive cohort of nonprofit leaders across the country sponsored by National Urban Fellows and Walmart Foundation.

ELLEN YIN-WYCOFF

Ellen Yin-Wycoff joined CALCASA in 2001, and has worked in the violence against women/victim services field since 1985. Currently, Ellen serves as the Chair of the Advisory Council for the National Sexual Violence Resource Center and as the Vice Chair of the State Advisory Committee on Sexual Assault Victim Services through the Governor's Office of Emergency Services (OES).

MIRA YUSEF

Mira Yusef, MSW, MA, Executive Director, Monsoon United Asian Women of Iowa
Mira Yusef is the co-founder and current executive director of Monsoon United Asian Women of Iowa. She was a December 2007 recipient of a Masters in Social Work with specialization on Community Organizing and a Masters in Southeast Asian Studies from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

SARA ZATZ

Sara Zatz is the Associate Director of Ping Chong + Company, a New York City-based theater company that addresses important cultural and civic issues with artistic innovation and social integrity. At Ping Chong + Company Sara oversees the community-based oral history project known as the Undesirable Elements series. Working in collaboration with partner organizations ranging from regional theaters to community-based arts organizations, she has managed the production of nearly two dozen original works in the series around the country, exploring themes such as the experiences of people with disabilities, immigrants and refugees, and disenfranchised youth. She has interviewed hundreds of individuals from all over the world, authored numerous productions in the series, and edited a book on the series for Theatre Communications Group. She served as the writer and director of the original Secret Survivors production, focusing on the experiences of survivors of childhood sexual abuse, and is now overseeing the Secret Survivors National Initiative. Social service organizations around the country have participated in arts and activism training with Ping Chong + Company, and are now creating their own theatrical productions with survivors of child sexual abuse. These productions will become tools for community-based dialogue and action to end child sexual abuse. She holds an M.Phil in Irish Theatre Studies from Trinity College, Dublin and a BA from Bryn Mawr College.